Captain and Crew Stand by Until the Early Morning.

Rescue One of Most Notable Ever Accomplished on Atlantic Coast.

YARMOUTH Nova Scotia Jan 15—Royal Mail Steam Packet liner Cobequid which struck on Trinity rock Tuesday morning and held together long enough to save the lives of the 108 persons on board was abandoned completely today and will probably go to pieces After her passengers and 84 of her crew had been taken off yesterday by two steamers the captain and 11 of the crew decided to remain on board in the hope that the vessel or at least her cargo might be saved

The sea continued boisterous during the night and when there were unmistakable signs of breaking up today the 13 men were taken on board the Canadian steamer Lansdowne which had remained in the vicinity all night

That the wreck of the liner was not accompanied by loss of life is regarded as remarkable The 26 hours in the five captains room on the boat was however a harrowing experience for passengers and crew One of the crew of the Westport which took off the first load of passengers said today that one of the women was unconscious and did not revive until the Westport was entering the harbor here

The failure of the Cobequids wireless brought to end up of the actual and exhaustion of the storage battery The sea with the fog were the contributing causes to the delay in reaching the steamer Rappahannock bound into St John from Halifax was within a mile and half of the Cobequid for several hours yesterday without seeing any signs of the stranded steamer After receiving word that all had been saved the Rappahannock proceeded to St John

William C Kenny of the company was on the Cobequid who was one of the victim of the wreck said the company was to blame for the loss of the ship the weather conditions being against them

Transportation of the ship for the first 24 hours after striking was difficult the ocean being very high but it worked but remained fast and the pumps he said

Frequently we were without light on the lower deck Until we left the ship we were in the cabins and ladies rooms and I saw in the smoking rooms living on biscuit and corn meal The discipline of the crew was excellent and there was no sign of panic or insubordination

The officers and passengers of the ship will probably remain in Yarmouth a few days

The rescue will go down in shipping annals as one of the most notable ever accomplished on the Atlantic coast The Cobequid had begun to break up under the cannonading of the terrific seas that had been merciless from the time the vessel struck early Tuesday Quantities of cargo covered the waters as the lifeboats ranged alongside

One of the crew of the Westport, which took off the first load of passengers, said today that one of the women was unconscious and did not revive until the Westport was entering the harbor here.

The failure of the Cobequid's wireless through the icing up of the aerial and the exhaustion of the storage battery, together with the fog, were the contributing causes for the delay in reaching the steamer. Steamer Rappahannock, bound into St. John from Halifax, was within a mile and half of the Cobequid for several hours yesterday, without seeing any signs of the stranded steamer. William C. Kenney of the company owning the Cobequid, who was on board at the time of the wreck, said today that no one was to blame for the loss of the ship, the weather conditions being against them.

The position of the ship for the first 12 hours after striking was critical, the bottom breaking eventually. A high tide she worked, but remained fast. STATEMENT OF THE PRISONER ADMITTED

Counsel Unable to Keep Partial Confession Out of the Case.

View of the Scene Likely to be Taken Before Defense Opens.

[Special despatch to the News.]

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 15.—The feature of the Smith murder trial today was the attempt of the defense to keep out of the case the so-called statement of the prisoner at the police station after his arrest. This statement is a partial confession, and while the matter was being argued the jury were taken from the courtroom. Captain Northup and Inspector Tobin were examined by the court as to the circumstances attending the making of this statement, and it was then ruled that the testimony was admissible.

F. W. Pearson testified as to a certain suit of clothes, John H. Nolan as to the finding of the revolver and Captain Northup and Inspector Tobin told of the statement made by Smith when he was brought to the station. Inspector Tobin was still on the stand this afternoon.

One of the witnesses was Mrs. Annie Eagan, mother of the murdered boy, who testified as to the time of the return home of her other son, who had left his brother at the beach.

During the examination of the witnesses as to the statement at the station, the name of ex-Mayor MacLeod was brought into the matter as a law partner of Mr. Burdick, one of the counsel for the defense. Mr. Mitchell objected to the reference and the court ruled it from the record.

The taking of a view is being discussed and it has already been agreed that rights as to irregularity of the prisoner being out of the county of his trial will be waived. The time of the view has not been set, but indications are that an effort will be made to take it before the defense opens.

The witnesses at the afternoon session Wednesday included Michael J. Durnan, a member of the Newport police force, who told of the capture of Smith by the police, and Peter Murphy a gardener who was one of the many who jumped down on the beach when Smith was cornered. Durnan did not change his testimony materially from that which he gave at the previous trial.

James P. O'Connell and Thomas J. Kelley, members of the crowd of spectators on the beach, also testified as to the fight, chase and shooting. These two witnesses went through a rigid cross-examination by Attorney Mitchell, of counsel for the defense.

Captain William J. T. Northup of the Newport police, told of being at the station on the night of the shooting, and said he had a talk with Smith at that time. Mr. Northup had just begun his testimony when the court adjourned.

Mr. Mitchell during his cross-examination of the various witnesses was interrupted by Assistant Attorney General Hinn, who objected to questions. Numerous times these objections were sustained by Judge Sweeney, and from a legal standpoint the case is given more likely than the previous trial.

MIDDLETOWN.

Women's Auxiliary Meeting—St. Columba's Guild Turkey Supper.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

The members of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Mary's and Holy Cross parishes were guests of Mrs. Charles Weaver at "Weaver Manor," near the One Mile Corner, Wednesday, this being the January meeting. The opening devotions were conducted by the rector Rev. F. W. Goodman, and the business session by the president, Mrs. J. Alton Barker.

The minutes of the previous meeting, and the treasurer's report, were presented by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Clarence Thurston. Mrs. Harold R. Chase treasurer of the "united offering," gave an extended account of the triennial offering, which was $367,456.66. She also read a United Offering leaflet entitled "The Mighty Cent."

Letters were read by the secretary from the Indian Aid department, Providence, asking co-operation in assisting the Indians of South Dakota and Utah. As the call seemed more urgent from Utah, it was decided to collect clothing and to send a box there about the middle of February, donations to be left with the president or the secretary.

It was decided to hold a quilting bee for the purpose of completing the two quilts partially made by the Auxiliary and the Juniors for the Point Hope barrel, to be sent by the middle of March.

Miss Emma Chace, as chairman of the Church Periodical Club, is to send to Providence several sacks of magazines and papers to be distributed at headquarters.

Mrs. Lillie McCartney presented a paper upon "Religions of Old Japan," which was interesting and instructive.

Mrs. Phoebe E. T. Manchester, who presents monthly current events from "The Spirit of Missions," the Auxiliary monthly organ, also offered many good suggestions, among them, the occasional joining in devotional and other meetings of the Auxiliary and the Juniors, the combining of the two organizations in a "shower" when the barrel for Alaska is packed, so that each member may bring a contribution, and that new articles be sent, so far as possible, to missionaries, and second-hand garments to schools. Mrs. Manchester stated that the Juniors, of whom she is director, are planning to give a missionary play before Lent.

As a completion to the afternoon's program, Mrs. Manchester asked for remarks, by roll-call, upon "The impressions received in hearing Bishop Rowe speak upon Alaska." The general verdict was one of great appreciation of the privilege, an increased interest in Alaska, an enlarged view of missionary work and the workers, and a feeling that people at home are not doing as much as they should according to their opportunities. Rev. Mr. Goodman spoke of Bishop Rowe's courage in his work, when he has so much continual anxiety at home at Seattle where he has an invalid wife and son.

The apportionment for this auxiliary was stated as $10.80.

Tea, crackers, fancy cakes and chocolates, were served, Mrs. Weaver pouring.

Mrs. Weaver will present a paper at the February meeting and Mrs. Kate Thurston will repeat her paper on Dr. Grenfel.

The members of St. Columba's Guild gave an unusually successful turkey supper at the Berkeley parish house Wednesday evening, the attendance being estimated as in the vicinity of 150. Supper was served from 6 to 8 o'clock. Four large tables, each seating 16 occupied the sides of the assembly hall, with two smaller tables seating 16 through the centre. These were decorated with carnations. The menu included turkey (about 125 pounds) and all the "fixings", with a variety of pie and the quality and quantity left nothing to be desired.

The supper committee comprised Mrs. Rescom S. Peckham, Mrs. J. Willis Peckham, Mrs. Edward J. Peckham and Mrs. Nathan Smith, who were assisted by Mrs. Ida Calvert, Miss Carrie Gibson and Mrs. Annie Anthony. Mrs. Harry E. Peckham was in charge of the dining room being assisted by Mrs. Edward J. Peckham, Mrs. Howard C. Peckham, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. John Melden, Misses Marguerite Ritchie, Sarah A. E. Peckham and Dorothy Champlin Peckham, and Messrs. Lloyd, and Russell Morgan Peckham, Mrs William U. Hart and charge of the coffee, Mr. Nathan Smith acted as ticket seller and Miss Nellie R. Peckham and Lloyd Peckham served as collectors.

Following the supper an excellent musical program was given by the orchestra from St. George's School, 4 members, Robert Wade Dale leader and Edward Scott MacDermott accompanist. The selections include full orchestral numbers, xylophone and piano solos, and piano duets. The following numbers were also presented: Five male voices from the school, led by Mr. Russell H. Nevin, Jr. in "Sleep, Kentucky Babe," and as an encore "Dry your eyes, my honey"; bass solo, Daniel V. Boone, "The Two Grenadiers," encore, "The Chinee Soldier Man," Mr. C. LeRoy Grinnell accompanist; second encore, "There's a sort of use in complaining;" piano number, Mr. Grinnell, "Andantino in D flat by Lemaire; encore, charmonade's "Scarf Dance;" baritone solo Samuel Taylor, "The Hymns of the Old Church Choir," Miss Marie Vaneek accompanist, encore, International Song, with improvised dance; piano number, Miss Janet Peckham "Come Amore;" encore, "Throwing Kisses" The men from the school sang in closing "1-2-3-I wish there were more." The orchestra played two numbers for dancing before disbanding and the music was continued by Mr. Grinnell.

There was a delegation of some 25 from the school and about 40 from Newport.

The attendance at the schools was comparatively small during the severe weather of Tuesday and Wednesday. Cutting was begun Wednesday on Hillside pond and two loads of good ice, five inches thick, secured. The channel is still open in places on the Easton's Pond side of the bridge.

The Tiverton and Little Compton shore to Seaconnet light appears to be encased in ice which has broken away and drifted down from the vicinity of Stone Bridge. The east shore of the Island does not seem to have frozen.

Leonard Webb of Boston, national traveling secretary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, whose special charge is the eastern provinces, will speak before the Junior Chapter of the Brotherhood of Holy Cross Church parish at its January meeting.

COLOMBIA READY TO TAKE MONEY INDEMNITY.

Negotiations between the United States and Colombia for the settlement of the latter's alleged claims arising out of the independence of Panama are now proceeding upon the basis of direct proposals made by Colombia for a settlement upon a cash indemnity basis. State Department officials say substantial progress has been made toward an ending of the long-standing controversy. Colombia insisted, during the Taft administration, that the case be submitted to arbitration and would not consider proposals made by the United States for the payment of any specified sum for the relinquishment of all her claims. It has become known, however, that early in the present administration the southern republic made a direct appeal to the United States, the scope of which has not been made known by either country. A counter proposition was made by Secretary Bryan.

POLICEWOMEN POPULAR.

Canada Becoming Interested and Many Already in the United States.

Canada is becoming interested in policewomen. Alice Stebbins Wells, policewoman No. 1 of Los Angeles, Cal., who has just returned from a trip across the border, explained the growth of the movement and the good which it is believed policewomen can do to the Duke of Connaught, governor general of the Dominion.

Toronto was the first Canadian city to appoint women to the police force with full power. It now has two such officials. Ottawa has recently given police power to two women. At present their salaries are paid by a private organization, but it is expected that their names will appear on the city pay roll soon. Peterborough, Montreal, St. John and Halifax are actively interested in the movement.

In the United States the number of cities and towns which have placed women on the police force with full or partial power is increasing so rapidly that it is no longer possible to keep count. Chicago, of course, is the recent shining example. Within the last two months San Francisco has changed its charter so as to admit women to the force without meeting the physical requirements which apply to men. Three women already have been appointed. Fargo and Grand Forks, North Dakota; Topeka, Kansas; Ottawa, Ill., and Kansas City are other places which recently have entrusted police power to women.

To what extent the movement has been favored in Europe is not a matter of record. It is said there are policewomen in Sweden. Mrs. Wells has received inquiries into the nature of policewomen's work in Canada from Austria, England and other countries.

AWE-INSPIRING SCENE.

Captain of Steamer from Kagoshima Tells of Eruption at Sakura.

NAGASAKI, Japan, Jan. 14.—A vivid description of the awe-inspiring scene on the island of Sakura during the eruption and tidal wave of Monday was given today by the captain of a Japanese steamer which arrived from Kagoshima. The captain, who assisted to rescue 300 persons, says it was perilous to approach the land, as columns of water burst up on the gulf, while on the land pillars of fire rose into the air from the acres of blazing sugar cane. At the same time people and cattle ran pell mell toward the beach in a wild effort to escape. The steamers in the gulf lowered row boats to pick up the hundreds of people who were drifting helplessly on flimsy rafts or swimming, while holding planks and pieces of timber all uttering piteous cries. Hundreds stood along the shore, unable to find means of escape.

WASHINGTON'S CLAIMS HEARD.

Arguments Regarding Federal Reserve Banks Begun in Capital.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Arguments by bankers and business men from cities south of New York and east of Pittsburgh seeking a federal reserve bank were begun here today before the organization committee. The claims of Washington were heard early today. Baltimore was on the list for the afternoon session of the committee. Several other cities will be heard tomorrow and Friday.

LIKE POISON IS THE GAS OF INDIGESTION

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil Clears Gas Out Quickly.

Thousands of distressed persons will go back to using castor oil now that it is tasteless.

There is nothing like Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil to clear out the "inner man." It is a relief for the pain and bloating of gas.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is a new and remarkable discovery. The nauseous taste and smell are taken out, but nothing else. It's all of the oil, but none of the taste, and so well purified that it acts better, without griping, and does not upset the stomach. Children take it readily.

Women and workers indoors find Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil a quick relief from the distress of poor digestion, and it is a perfect laxative. Kellogg's is not mixed or flavored, just a true, tasteless castor oil.

Ask for Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil at any drug store. Not sold in bulk, but in 25c or 50c bottles, trademarked with a green castor leaf bearing the signature, Kellogg's. Made only by Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., oil refiners.

"IDONIA."

Story of Old England in the Days of Queen Elizabeth, by Arthur P. Wallis.

"Idonia," by Arthur P Wallis, is a romance of old London in the days of Queen Elizabeth, a tale of love adventure and peril Written in the quaint style of the sixteenth century, by one Denis Cleeve the book is full of the atmosphere of those stirring times, when murder and robbery were rife on every side There are many scenes of bloodshed as duels assaults by soldiers and promiscuous fighting are common occurrences Athough the book is written in a leisurely fashion events narrated are exactly the reverse splitted and daring

The story has to do with the adventures of Denis Cleeve, son of a fine high-minded country gentleman who has been cruelly wronged by his brothe Botolph Years after his dishonorable dealings Botolph sends a message to his brother that he is in the Tower and needs assistance Young Denis is sent to London with his father's riches, but upon arriving in the city is treacherously dealt with The experiences of the heart sick moneyless boy are as varied as they are strange and fierce and before he returns home he has fought with desperadoes and been captured by pirates

Idonia the heroine is surrounded with mystery Why she should live in a ruined old mansion occupied by thieves flatters and worse is not fully disclosed until the story draws to an end The career of Uncle Botolph, who is a consummate villain ,but who can appear as an angel of light, is a study in rascality and roguery

There are several illustrations, the work of Charles E Brock

ANSWERING DR. ELIOT.

Extreme Utterances on Twentieth Century Christianity Refuted

[Pittsburgh Gazette-Times]

Dr Charles W Eliot president emeritus of Harvard, whose principal mission since retiring from university work has been to startle the world with extreme utterances has been writing on twentieth century Christianity He rejects certain old beliefs and dismisses as myths the various narratives of the Bible The Garden of Eden man made Christ the sun standing still at Joshua's command committal of the Ten Commandments to Moses by God—all these are dismissed as mythical while miracles are impossible in the term God should give way to Our Father of the Creator

The Creator is for modern man a simple energy and will says Dr Eliot He is recognized chiefly in the wonderful energies of sound light and electricity The venerable scholar adds that Christ will be the supreme teacher of the twentieth century Christianity and that the Church of the future will have more reverence for the personality of Christ and will prefer truth to authority

Very well When we acknowledge the Creator's sleepless energy and will and concede to Him the wonders of sound light and electricity have we not imputed to Him power equivalent to the performance of miracles and to the accomplishment of the apparently impossible and unscientific achievements of the Old and New Testaments? The Creator gives life and is the only source of life That is the transcendent miracle Science is staggered by it and can neither match nor explain it When we accept that as a fact all other miracles become subordinate save only the restoration of life—belief in which is not difficult if the Creator is actually all powerful as even Dr Eliot admits He is.

Story of Old England in the Days of Queen Elizabeth, by Arthur F. Wallis.

"Idonia," by Arthur F. Wallis, is a romance of old London in the days of Queen Elizabeth, a tale of love, adventure and peril. Written in the quaint style of the sixteenth century, by one Denis Cleeve, the book is full of the atmosphere of those stirring times, when murder and robbery were rife on every side. There are many scenes of bloodshed, as duels, assaults by spiders and promiscuous fightings are common occurrences. Although the book is written in a leisurely fashion, events hurtled are exactly the reverse, spirited and daring.

The story has to do with the adventures of Denis Cleeve, son of a fine, high-minded country gentleman, who has been cruelly wronged by his brother Botolph. Years after his dishonorable dealings Botolph sends a message to his brother that he is in the Tower and needs assistance. Young Denis is sent to London with his father's riches, but upon arriving in the city is treacherously dealt with. The experiences of the heart-sick, moneyless boy are as varied as they are strange and fierce, and before he returns home he has fought with desperadoes and been captured by pirates.

Idonia, the heroine, is surrounded with mystery. Why she should live in a ruined old mansion, occupied by thieves, traitors and worse, is not fully disclosed until the story draws to an end. The career of Uncle Botolph, who is a consummate villain but who can appear as an angel of light, is a study in rascality and roguery.

There are several illustrations, the work of Charles E. Brock.

PORTSMOUTH.

St. Paul's Ladies' Association Meets—The Durfee-Brayton Wedding.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The Ladies' Association of St. Paul's Church met Wednesday afternoon with Misses Fannie and Grace Hicks. On account of the cold the attendance was small, but as there was a quorum the usual business meeting was held. Reports of Christmas expenditures and receipts were given and plans discussed for additions to the furniture of the new kitchen at the guild house. The president, Miss Hattie G. Anthony presided and the secretary, Miss Abbie S. Anthony, gave the report of the last meeting. Several letters were read, thanking the society for Christmas gifts. Mrs. Benjamin C. Sherman was present for the first time since her return from her long visit to Anderson Iowa. She will entertain the Society a fortnight hence.

Miss Marjorie P. Hicks has gone to New York to visit friends.

Miss Edna Dennis Brayton, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Brayton, and Mr. Andrew J. Durfee eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Durfee of Sprague street, were married Wednesday, the birthday of the bride, at 6:30 in the evening at the Methodist Episcopal parsonage. Rev. John Wadsworth performed the ceremony, in the presence of a few members of both families—Mr. and Mrs. Durfee, Miss Lottie Durfee, Mrs. Brayton, Miss Alice Natalie Brayton and Miss Emma L. Brayton. Among the presents was a handsomely ornamented wedding cake. The bride wore a light cloth suit with brown hat and white plumes.

Mr. James H. Hudlong has purchased a boat, inquired from Captain Benjamin Tallman. The boat is 25 feet in length.

Reports of mishaps during the gale and cold weather are coming in. A number of the pupils at the Vaucluse school were severely frost-bitten Tuesday morning. A great deal of damage was done by the heavy wind in tearing limbs from trees. On Branch's lane, on the south side of the road, nearly opposite "Lone Elm" place, a large limb was broken off and thrown across the road from a tree standing in a row of large handsome maples bordering the road side. The skylight at Dr. Conway's was torn from the roof and water mills were broken off and stacks blown about.

Mr. Cornelius Sheehan, who has been quite sick is somewhat better.

Mrs. Frank Berger is spending the week in New York with her mother, who is quite ill.

Miss Emma L. Brayton spent Wednesday in Fall River, her first visit since June.

The Chase school and the primary room of the Newtown school, on account of the cold, were closed Monday.

Mrs. Alice Hinckley of Worcester is at he home of her daughter, Mrs. M. A. Smith, for a fortnight's visit.

The annual meeting of the Christian Church, which was to have been held the first of the week was postponed.

ANSWERING DR. ELIOT.

Extreme Utterances on Twentieth Century Christianity Refuted.

(Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.)

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, whose principal mission since retiring from university work has been to startle the world with extreme utterances, has been writing on twentieth century Christianity. He rejects certain old beliefs and dismisses as myths various narratives of the Bible. The Garden of Eden, man made of dust, the sun standing still at Joshua's command, committal of the Ten Commandments to Moses by God—all these are dismissed as mythical, while miracles are impossible and the term "God" should give way to "Our Father" or the "Creator".

"The Creator is for modern man a sleepless energy and will," says Dr. Eliot. "He is recognized chiefly in the wonderful energies of sound, light and electricity." The venerable scholar adds that "Christ will be the supreme teacher of the twentieth century Christianity," and that the Church of the future "will have more reverence for the personality of Christ" and "will prefer liberty to authority."

Very well. When you acknowledge the Creator's "sleepless energy and will" and concede to Him the wonders of sound, light and electricity," have you not imputed to Him power equivalent to the performance of miracles, and to the accomplishment of the apparently impossible and unscientific achievements of the Old and New Testaments? The Creator gives life, and is the only source of life. That is the transcendant miracle. Science is staggered by it, and can neither match nor explain it. When we accept that as a fact, all other miracles become subordinate save only the restoration of life—belief in which is not difficult if the Creator is actually all powerful as even Dr. Eliot admits He is.

VARIUM ET MUTABILE.

[Helen Coale Crew, in the Independent.]

A Sphinx am I, mute-lipped, but in my eyes
Knowledge of life and pain and patience lies.

Sibyl am I, and counsel-quick my word,
Above the roar of sin my thought is heard.

I am three sisters spinning one short thread,
I swaddle babes and shroud the quiet dead.

I am the maiden Joy, and all the world
About my laughing, sweet caprice is twirled.

Griselda-patient, I my warriors give
That nation-pride and conquest-greed may live.

I am a creature with a mother-breast,
Where babes and men, where saints and sinners, rest.

O sighing sneer! O impotent sharp sting!
I yet am glad I am a Woman-Thing!

STANDARD FIRE HOSE

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has prepared specifications for hose which it desires adopted by purchasers It has organized a laboratory in Chicago for the testing of hose and provides labels to be placed on each length to show that it is up to the board's requirements The test may ultimately mean that many cities and owners of property will demand the hose which the board approves and some manufacturers claim that it puts too great power in the hands of a few men and is being abused to the injurious restraint of trade as has been alleged in a suit already instituted Perhaps the board is favoring certain manufacturers but it is well known to those who are acquainted with fire department supplies that a standard which is a standard for fire hose is sadly needed All kinds of prices are paid and all kinds of products are secured largely dependent on the scrutiny given by the purchasing party

It might be interesting to know if the hose which Newport is to purchase would be sent in the 1 bonitory and be given a trial Of course the chief has recommended a brand, but he has not said that it has the label and when the purchasing is done the committee may not approve that brand If the Representative Council does not make it obligatory as it did, perhaps unconsciously last year

THE SERVANT PROBLEM IN THE COUNTRY

It is safe to assume that there would be many more families living in the country and enjoying the freedom and the benefit of life out of doors if the servant question were not such a problem there Only with difficulty can reliable maids be secured in the cities and when asked to go into the country, no matter how high the wages or how good the homes as a rule they refuse So the women of families living comparatively easy lives in cities with servants to assist with a great part of the work of the household will not without protest accept the conditions which prevail in the country They realize how much they might be benefited by the outdoor life but fear the drudgery as they regard it of the country home which without help will fall entirely upon their shoulders Hence while many men are anxious to come nearer to nature in their way of living their wives are not willing to take up the burden without help

Of course many of these women do not realize the change which has taken place in many parts of the country in regard to the work of the home The life to which so many of them object is the kind which prevailed in the country in the days when there were no conveniences at very few at most and there was perforce a great deal of drudgery connected with it while few of the pleasures of the cities were available In these days however with country homes equipped with heat light and labor saving devices such as are found in the city the amount of drudgery has diminished while with trolley car or automobile at command there are many pleasures not known in former days Women who hesitate to take up their abode in the country would be agreeably surprised if they knew what changes have been made within the past few years to lighten labor and bring comfort and freedom into rural homes

In olden times there were plenty of women who seemed to have no trouble in living in the country and in finding pleasure and happiness and who in fact preferred it to the cities When a servant in the family became a social if not an actual necessity those who could afford one living out of town was a different thing So today this seems to be the stumbling block which is keeping many families who otherwise would enjoy country life cooped up in the city—the women are not willing to do without the domestic, who does not find it so easy a matter to reach places of amusement and realizes for this reason she is more tied down than in the city She does not care for the country and is lonesome and not willing to stay It seems a pity that this should keep so many from living in the country, but until there is a solution of the servant problem, or until women are willing to give up some of the ease and pleasures of the life they now enjoy in the cities in return for the health and strength and the free outdoor life of the country, conditions will not be materially changed.

PA AND THE BEST YOUNG MAN.

Among the stock properties of the humorists are the mother who is constantly trying to marry off her daughter and the father who drives away all the suitors with a dog and a ponderous boot It is not often that we encounter the material upon which this domestic theory rests, but a bit of it has turned up in a separation case in New York

The relations of Mr and Mrs Nels A Seaquist of Brooklyn have become so strained that the wife is suing for a separation Her story is that all the trouble is due to her husband's opposition to the daughter's suitor In reply the husband complains that the daughter and her young man occupied the parlor until midnight in the winter and monopolized the hammock in the arbor in the summer

This of course is no sort of reason why Seaquist should trump up some charge against the girl and have her arrested, in consequence of which Mrs Seaquist and her five children packed up their personal effects and left the house the mother declaring that the father was jealous because Lillian had a beau and that he desired his daughter to die an old maid The judge reserved his decision, but expressed the opinion that the father should not have grudged the girl and her best young men the use of the parlor It will soon be spring, he said and the courting can be done at the front gate Just now the weather is too unseasonable for that

So far the facts are all dead against Seaquist and he appears as the social satirists father who drives off all the young men while the mother is determined to have her daughter married Incidentally there is just one feature which puts Seaquist in a somewhat better light While the young man was courting Lillian he had a wife from whom he was trying to obtain a divorce It is just possible that Seaquist has some old-fashioned notions about the permanency of marriage, and was not jealous because Lillian had a beau and not determined that she should die an old maid but did object to her receiving the attentions of a man who had not yet secured a divorce from his wife If so there are a few elderly people who will feel considerable sympathy with him.

A REFORMED OUTLAW

The leading exponent of political reform in Oklahoma just now is a reformed train robber Who can doubt his competence to set right the politics of that young and hustling state He has tried the way of the transgressor and found it hard, certainly he must be a much better man than an insophisticated person who has never been a brigand and has no idea of the actual superiority of the honest life

The man who practiced the profession of train robber for several years as a result of which he spent five years in the penitentiary won the Democratic nomination for county attorney last fall and now with a higher ambition of force if the morals of his state is in he race for the Democratic nomination for governor Evidently he is thoroughly reformed and what better assurance could the virtue loving citizen of Oklahoma have of a governor who would apply his own experience to politics and put down crime with strong hand?

Yet we cannot fail to notice that the sort of infamy which he desires to suppress is not the sort which he used to practice He says I made a mistake and defied the law I was caught and punished I put five years in prison and then saw how I had been wrong to become an enemy of society I decided to reclaim my place in society and set about doing it As soon as I became a free man living in a free community I began to appreciate the differences in law breaking and the consequences thereof and that made me a political reformer

The men he wishes to punish are not train robbers I saw all about me men who wore the best clothes and stood high in society robbing the people right and left and not getting caught or being punished Of course they ought to be punished men who rob the people right and left should not be at large Yet it is a little interesting to note in passing that thoroughly reformed as he is his determination to be an avenging fate is not aimed at the men who practice the arts with which he used to be familiar but a class with whom he has no community of association or interest Still we presume that if he were governor he would not be unduly partial to train robbers

President Wilson, who does not favor a return to the spoils system in postoffices has let it be known that he is opposed to a proposed change in the postal laws which would take the assistant postmasters throughout the country out of the civil service rules In fact he made it clear that he will veto the postoffice appropriation bill if it contains the provision now under consideration The President, it is understood, has decided to call a halt to what has been charged by civil service advocates as a tendency in Congress to break down the merit system He was confronted on the tariff, currency and the urgent deficiency bills with the civil service problem, but in signing these measures took the position that his power of placing employes in the classified service had not weakened and that the merit system should be applied.

President Wilson's solution of the trust question is a trade commission, without semi-judicial powers such as the Interstate Commerce Commission possesses, but with authority to administer the dissolution devices of the courts, gather data about corporations and intercede between 'big business' and the consuming public, with a view to putting into practical effect the constitution of peace' That might or might not work

The United States has no monopoly of the extreme cold weather and in fact is better off than European countries, Southern France, even down to the Mediterranean has experienced snowstorms heavy frosts, in some cases blizzards, and throughout Germany there has been unusually severe weather England has had gales snow sleet and low temperatures In many of these countries the cold is the more trying because the people are not accustomed to it.

The books of the controller of the city of New York show that since 1889 a fund of $244 038 07 has accumulated from wages and salaries remaining unpaid It hardly seems possible that so much money has been left in the treasury unclaimed It is said that the wages or salaries are uncollectible after six years and all claims antedating that time will be cancelled

Now it is snow to complete the round of winter weather during the week

A VETERAN PEDESTRIAN.

Dan O'Leary Defeats Weston Three Times During Professional Career.

(Washington Star)

Dan O'Leary, aged 70 years, steamed into San Francisco a few days ago and after he had handed a letter to Mayor Rolph entrusted to him by the mayor of Portland, O'Leary added up his mileage and found that he had walked 101 857 miles since 1874, when he began his professional career as a walker And I have more gasoline left in my tank chuckled O'Leary after telling what a bully walk he had down from Portland

Right now I would like to walk any man of my age in the world, Weston preferred Tell you what I have been doing the last 40 years on my birthdays walking as many miles as I am years old Last birthday, when I hit the 70 mark I stepped over to Mount Hood, a distance of about 70 miles without any serious efforts'

O'Leary recalled some of his early triumphs which were effected in San Francisco In 1876 in the old Horticultural Hall on Stockton and Post streets he walked 500 miles in six days which was the first time any such thing was attempted Later in the same year he defeated Henry Schmehl of Chicago at Mechanics pavilion, in a six-day match for $2 000 a side

After that he walked all over the world including France England Canada and Australia Some of his greatest triumphs were over Weston whom he defeated three times once being in England In London, in 1880, in a six-day match he beat Weston 27 miles which created no end of interest throughout the British empire It created so much excitement that Parliament adjourned the last three days to see the contest Weston was backed by Sir John Astley a member of parliament Although an American Weston took sides with the English as against O'Leary who was reared in Ireland

The home rule question was at white heat with Parnell leading the Irish forces Astley hung up a championship belt in addition to a side bet The belt was to have been won three times Dan beat Weston the first time easily as already recounted Second time Dan competed for the Astley belt there were 20 Englishmen against him and the odds were 20 to one against him Because of poor health Weston declined the issue Dan defeated the big field handily walking 520 miles Vaughn the second man negotiated 500 miles Al Smith of New York a plunger won a fortune taking Dan at 20 to one In his third essay O'Leary was beaten by Rowell who went go-as-you-please

Dan was not built for the go-as-you-please style and after this setback retired from this sort of hiking His last strenuous contest was at Cincinnati in 1907 when he walked 1 000 miles in 1 000 hours He walked a mile rested the rest of that hour then walked another mile rested the rest of that hour and so on for 1 000 hours which was a most arduous performance for a man of any age

I always keep my feet in first-class condition' said Dan speaking of the art of walking I don't let any callouse grow on the bottom By using a stiff sandpaper I file off any growth and then I salt my feet are soft and tough as glass I never use talcum powder on my feet Why I used to use six pairs of shoes two days running In fact I used to use six pairs coming down from Portland

WOMAN'S EIGHT-HOUR BILL.

National Consumers' League Concentrating Forces in Washington.

The National Consumers' League is concentrating its forces in Washington in an endeavor to secure the prompt passage through the House of the La Follette-Peters bill providing for an eight-hour day for women workers in the District of Columbia. The District of Columbia branch of the league, under the direction of Miss Constance D Leupp, is openly and persistently lobbying to get consideration for the bill at the hands of the House caucus, and the public in the city will be aroused at a mass meeting to be held Sunday afternoon Mrs Florence Kelley of New York will be among the prominent speakers

The campaign to secure the passage of this bill through the House is an interesting illustration that the House has changed places with the Senate in becoming the chamber which is used to kill legislation The La Follette-Peters bill has twice been through the Senate, but at two separate sessions failed of favorable committee reports. Representative Underwood the majority leader at a critical moment in the debate last March interposed the motion to adjourn and the bill went over In a statement issued today the Consumers League declares 'It remains therefore only to be passed by the House of Representatives in order to afford to women working in the District of Columbia much needed protection from overwork

The statement continues

The District of Columbia the seat of the capital of the nation may reasonably be expected to lead all the states in measures for promoting public health and welfare Thirty-seven states however are at this time far in advance of it in protecting women from excessive hours of labor. The District has now no restrictions whatsoever upon them Four states Arizona, California, Colorado and Washington already provide the eight hour day for working women

Congressman Peters pointed out in his speech before the House last March that during nearly 20 years men employed by the government as laborers or as mechanics have had the eight hour day and in this very Congress a law has been enacted extending this limitation of hours for men to laborers and mechanics employed by contractors doing work for the federal government This is largely a physiological question Since we consider it wise to protect by an eight-hour day so far as we can, the men working directly and indirectly for the government how much more necessary it is that we make every effort to give similar protection to as large a proportion as possible of the future mothers of the citizenship of this country"

The investigation of the federal bureau of labor showed that about 70 per cent of the working woman investigated who were employed in the mercantile establishments of the District worked overtime during the week before Christmas in the year of 1912 Thirty-one per cent of this number worked from 75 to 80 hours 69 per cent worked 70 hours or more during that week Many have worked 14 to 16 hours on the day before Christmas In as much as the House of Representatives failed to enact the Peters bill presumably the same overwork again existed last month The bureau of labor also found excessive hours of labor required in the laundries and such factories as exist in the District Thus instead of providing a model for the states to copy the District of Columbia lags in the rear Congress has power to apply the remedy, the Senate has twice acted favorably Such national bodies as the National Consumers' League the American Association for Labor Legislation the American Federation of Labor, are working hard to insure imediate action by the House of Representatives

DANGEROUS BANKING.

Siegel Savings Department Maintained Without Proper Safeguards.

(New York Evening Post)

The position in which the failure of the dry goods firm of Henry Siegel & Company has left depositors in the savings bank department maintained by that establishment strongly emphasizes the recommendations hitherto made by the state banking department The superintendent's annual reports have frequently called attention to the need of closer supervision of this class of deposit institutions in the interest both of the establishment itself and of the depositors The gist of the Siegel's receivers report is that something over $2 500 000, had been accepted on deposit, from 14 000 to 15 000 separate individuals and that the money thus received had been practically all loaned out to the three dry goods stores which failed last week These loans had been made on collateral of the stock of the holding company which controlled these and some other dry goods stores concerning which the Siegel receiver states that it undoubtedly has some value but that no one can tell what is the value of the stock'

Considering all the circumstances of the case it must be evident that the undertaking amounted to maintenance of a savings bank without any of the safeguards as to inspection by the state or restriction on investment of deposits which exist in an ordinary savings bank Under the present practice, this savings department was classed as a private bank But in view of the number and character of the depositors, it is manifestly illogical to assume that the transactions were in line with the keeping of accounts by clients and investors with, say, a Wall street banking house Nor can it rightly be assumed that customers of the Siegel stores were merely lending money to the dry goods enterprise, for the depositors seem at no time to have been made aware of what disposition was made of the money thus entrusted, or of what collateral stood behind the loan The principle of the savings bank law is that the state must protect the investment on any extensive scale, of the savings of the thrifty poor in an institution soliciting such deposits on payment of yearly interest, and the Siegel savings department clearly came within the scope of that principle.

EASTER IN THE GREEK CHURCH.

(The Atlantic)

The Easter festival stands greatest among the festivals of the Greek church The priest often asserted that the picture of the Virgin looked very sad on Good Friday and smiled on Easter Good Friday it flew over the hills to gather wild flowers in which the cross was covered in a little coffin, in commemoration of the burial of Jesus Shortly after midnight Saturday the church bell pealed the glorious message of the resurrection I woke up with the words, 'Christ is risen' on my lips 'Indeed He is risen' was the answer I kissed the hands of my parents and we all proceeded to the church to enjoy the glorious Easter ritual

The supreme moment for me during the Easter mass came when Satan was vanquished by Christ The entire congregation following the priest, marched three times around the church each carrying a lighted taper then all marched out of the church only one man, who represented Satan, remaining inside He closed the church door and stood close behind it, to prevent the risen Lord from entering into heaven

The priest who represented the Christ approached the door with the multitude behind him and in a most solemn voice chanted the words of the psalmist Lift up your heads, O ye gates and be ye lifted up, ye everlasting doors and the King of Glory shall come in'" The man inside said in a sneering tone 'Who is this King of Glory?' The Lord of Hosts" said the priest, 'he is the King of Glory!' Thrice was the chant repeated then the hindering Satan vanquished barked like a dog and the priest forced the door open and marched in with the multitue chanting 'Let God arise and let his enemies be scattered!'

STANDARD FIRE HOSE.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has prepared specifications for hose which it desires adopted by purchasers. It has organized a laboratory in Chicago for the testing of hose and provides labels to be placed on each length, to show that it is up to the board's requirements. The act naturally means that many cities and owners of property will demand the hose which the board approves, and some manufacturers claim that it puts too great power in the hands of a few men and is being abused to the "injurious restraint of trade," as has been alleged in a suit already instituted. Perhaps the board is favoring certain manufacturers, but it is well known to those who are acquainted with fire department supplies that a standard which is a standard for fire hose is sadly needed. All kinds of prices are paid and all kinds of products are secured, largely dependent on the scrutiny given by the purchasing party.

It might be interesting to know if the hose which Newport is to purchase would test out in the laboratory and be given a label. Of course the chief has recommended a brand, but he has not said that it has the label, and when the purchasing is done the committee may not approve that brand if the Representative Council does not make it obligatory, as it did, perhaps unconsciously, last year.

THE SERVANT PROBLEM IN THE COUNTRY.

It is safe to assume that there would be many more families living in the country and enjoying the freedom and the benefit of life out of doors if the servant question were not such a problem there. Only with difficulty can reliable maids be secured in the cities, and when asked to go into the country, no matter how high the wages or how good the homes, as a rule they refuse. So the women of families living comparatively easy lives in cities, with servants to assist with a great part of the work of the household will not without protest accept the conditions which prevail in the country. They realize how much they might be benefited by the outdoor life, but fear the drudgery, as they regard it, of the country home which without help will fall entirely upon their shoulders. Hence, while many men are anxious to come nearer to nature in their way of living, their wives are not willing to take up the burden without help.

Of course many of these women do not realize the change which has taken place in many parts of the country in regard to the work of the home. The life to which so many of them object is the kind which prevailed in the country in the east, when there were no conveniences or very few at most, and there was perforce a great deal of drudgery connected with it, while few of the pleasures of the cities were available. In these days, however, with country homes equipped with heat, light and labor-saving devices such as are found in the city, the amount of drudgery has diminished, while with trolley car or automobile at command there are many pleasures not known in former days. Women who hesitate to take up their abode in the country would be agreeably surprised if they knew what changes have been made within the past few years to lighten labor and bring comfort and freedom into rural homes.

In olden times there were plenty of women who seemed to have no trouble in living in the country and in finding pleasure and happiness, and who in fact preferred it to the cities. When a servant in the family became a social if not an actual necessity with those who could afford one, living out of town was a different thing. So today this seems to be the stumbling block which is keeping many families who otherwise would enjoy country life cooped up in the city—the women are not willing to do without the domestic, who does not find it so easy a matter to reach places of amusement and realizes for this reason she is more tied down than in the city. She does not care for the country and is lonesome and not willing to stay. It seems a pity that this should keep so many from living in the country, but until there is a solution of the servant problem, or until women are willing to give up some of the ease and pleasures of the life they now enjoy in the cities in return for the health and strength and the free outdoor life of the country, conditions will not be materially changed.

PA AND THE BEST YOUNG MAN.

Among the stock properties of the humorists are the mother who is constantly trying to marry off her daughter and the father who drives away all the suitors with a dog and a ponderous boot. It is not often that we encounter the material upon which this domestic theory rests, but a bit of it has turned up in a separation case in New York.

The relations of Mr. and Mrs. Nels A. Seaquist of Brooklyn have become so strained that the wife is suing for a separation. Her story is that all the trouble is due to her husband's opposition to the daughter's suitor. In reply the husband complains that the daughter and her young man occupied the parlor until midnight in the winter and monopolized the hammock in the arbor in the summer.

This of course is no sort of reason why Seaquist should trump up some charge against the girl and have her arrested, in consequence of which Mrs. Seaquist and her five children packed up their personal effects and left the house, the mother declaring that the father was jealous because Lillian had a beau and that he desired his daughter to die an old maid. The judge reserved his decision, but expressed the opinion that the father should not have grudged the girl and her best young men the use of the parlor. "It will soon be spring," he said, "and the courting can be done at the front gate. Just now the weather is too unseasonable for that."

So far the facts are all dead against Seaquist, and he appears as the social satirists' father who drives off all the young men while the mother is determined to have her daughter married. Incidentally there is just one feature which puts Seaquist in a somewhat better light. While the young man was courting Lillian he had a wife from whom he was trying to obtain a divorce. It is just possible that Seaquist has some old-fashioned notions about the permanency of marriage, and was not jealous because Lillian had a beau and not determined that she should die an old maid, but did object to her receiving the attentions of a man who had not yet secured a divorce from his wife. If so, there are a few elderly people who will feel considerable sympathy with him.

A REFORMED OUTLAW.

The leading exponent of political reform in Oklahoma just now is a reformed train robber. Who can doubt his competence to set right the politics of that young and hustling state? He has tried the way of the transgressor and found it hard; certainly he must be a much better man than an unsophisticated person who has never been a brigand and has no idea of the actual superiority of the honest life.

The man who practiced the profession of train robber for several years, as a result of which he spent five years in the penitentiary, won the Democratic nomination for county attorney last year, and now with a higher ambition to correct the morals of his state is in the race for the Democratic nomination for governor. Evidently he is thoroughly reformed, and what better assurance could the virtue-loving citizens of Oklahoma have of a governor who would apply his own experience to politics and put down crime with a strong hand?

Yet we cannot fail to notice that the sort of iniquity which he desires to suppress is not the sort which he used to practice. He says: "I made a mistake and defied the law. I was caught and punished, kept five years in prison, and then saw how I had been wrong to become an enemy of society. I decided to reclaim my place in society and set about doing it. As soon as I became a free man living in a free community I began to appreciate the differences in law-breaking and the consequences thereof, and that made me a political reformer."

The men he wishes to punish are not train robbers. "I saw all about me men who wore the best clothes and stood high in society robbing the people right and left and not getting caught or being punished." Of course they ought to be punished; men who rob the people right and left should not be at large. Yet it is a little interesting to notice in passing that, thoroughly reformed as he is, his determination to be an avenging fate is not aimed at the men who practice the arts with which he used to be familiar, but a class with whom he has no common ties of association or interest. Still, we presume that if he were governor he would not be unduly partial to train robbers.

President Wilson, who does not favor a return to the spoils system in postoffices, has let it be known that he is opposed to a purposed change in the postal laws which would take the assistant postmasters throughout the country out of the civil service rules. In fact, he made it clear that he will veto the postoffice appropriation bill if it contains the provision now under consideration. The President, it is understood, has decided to call a halt to what has been charged by civil service advocates as a tendency in Congress to break down the merit system. He was confronted on the tariff, currency and the urgent deficiency bills with the civil service problem, but in signing these measures took the position that his power of placing employes in the classified service had not weakened and that the merit system should be applied.

President Wilson's solution of the trust question is a trade commission, without semi-judicial powers such as the Interstate Commerce Commission possesses, but with authority to administer the dissolution devices of the courts, gather data about corporations and intercede between "big business" and the consuming public, with a view to putting into practical effect "the constitution of peace." That might or might not work.

The United States has no monopoly of the extreme cold weather, and in fact is better off than European countries, Southern France, even down to the Mediterranean, has experienced snowstorms, heavy frosts, in some cases blizzards; and throughout Germany there has been unusually severe weather. England has hard gales, snow, sleet and low temperatures. In many of these countries the cold is the more trying because the people are not accustomed to it.

The books of the controller of the city of New York show that since 1899 a fund of $243,038.07 has accumulated from wages and salaries remaining unpaid. It hardly seems possible that so much money has been left in the treasury unclaimed. It is said that the wages or salaries are uncollectible after six years, and all claims antedating that time will be cancelled.

Now it is snow, to complete the round of winter weather during the week.

A VETERAN PEDESTRIAN.

Dan O'Leary Defeats Weston Three Times During Professional Career.

[Washington Star.]

Dan O'Leary, aged 70 years, steamed into San Francisco a few days ago and, after he had handed a letter to Mayor Rolph entrusted to him by the mayor of Portland, O'Leary added up his mileage and found that he had walked 101,857 miles since 1874, when he began his professional career as a walker. "And I have more gasoline left in my tank," chuckled O'Leary, after telling what a bully walk he had down from Portland.

"Right now I would like to walk any man of my age in the world, Weston preferred. Tell you what I have been doing the last 40 years on my birthdays; walking as many miles as I am years old. Last birthday, when I hit the 70 mark, I stepped over to Mount Hood, a distance of about 70 miles, without any serious efforts."

O'Leary recalled some of his early triumphs which were effected in San Francisco. In 1876, in the old Horticultural Hall on Stockton and Post streets, he walked 500 miles in six days, which was the first time any such thing was attempted. Later in the same year he defeated Henry Schmehl of Chicago, at Mechanics' pavilion, in a six-day match for $2,000 a side.

After that he walked all over the world including France, England, Canada and Australia. Some of his greatest triumphs were over Weston, whom he defeated three times, once being in England. In London, in 1880, in a six-day match, he beat Weston 2" miles, which created no end of interest throughout the British empire. It created so much excitement that parliament adjourned the last three days to see the contest. Weston was backed by Sir John Astley a member of parliament. Although an American, Weston took sides with the English as against O'Leary, who was reared in Ireland.

The home rule question was at white heat, with Parnell leading the Irish forces. Astley hung up a championship belt in addition to a side bet. The belt was to have been won three times. Dan beat Weston the first time easily, as already recounted. Second time Dan competed for the Astley belt there were 20 Englishmen against him, and the odds were 20 to one against him. Because of poor health Weston declined the issue. Dan defeated the big field handily, walking 524 miles. Vaughn, the second man, negotiated 500 miles. Al Smith of New York, a plunger, won a fortune, taking Dan at 20 to one. In his third essay O'Leary was beaten by Rowell, who went go-as-you-please.

Dan was not built for the go-as-you-please style, and after this setback retired from this sort of hiking. His last strenuous contest was at Cincinnati in 1907, when he walked 1,000 miles in 1,000 hours. He walked a mile, rested the rest of that hour, then walked another mile, rested the rest of that hour, and so on for 1,000 hours, which was a most arduous performance for a man of any age.

"I always keep my feet in first-class condition" said Dan, speaking of the art of walking. "I don't let any callouses grow on the bottom. By using a little sandpaper I file off any growth, and the result my feet are soft, and smooth as glass. I never use one pair of shoes two days running. In fact, I used up six pairs coming down from Portland."

WOMAN'S EIGHT-HOUR BILL.

National Consumers' League Concentrating Forces in Washington.

The National Consumers' League is concentrating its forces in Washington in an endeavor to secure the prompt passage through the House of the La Follette-Peters bill providing for an eight-hour day for women workers in the District of Columbia. The District of Columbia branch of the league, under the direction of Miss Constance D. Leupp, is openly and persistently lobbying to get consideration for the bill at the hands of the House caucus, and the public in the city will be aroused at a mass meeting to be held Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Florence Kelley of New York will be among the prominent speakers.

The campaign to secure the passage of this bill through the House is an interesting illustration that the House has changed places with the Senate in becoming the chamber which is used to kill legislation. The La Follette-Peters bill has twice been through the Senate, but at two separate sessions failed of passage through the House in spite of favorable committee reports. Representative Underwood, the majority leader, at a critical moment in the denate, last March, interposed the motion to adjourn, and the bill went over. In a statement issued today the Consumer's League declares: "It remains therefore, only to be passed by the House of Representatives in order to afford to women working in the District of Columbia much needed protection from overwork."

The statement continues:

The District of Columbia, the seat of the capital of the nation, may reasonably be expected to lead all the states in measures for promoting public health and welfare. Thirty-seven states, however, are at this time far in advance of it in protecting women from excessive hours of labor. The District has now no restrictions whatsoever upon them. Four states, Arizona, California, Colorado and Washington already provide the eight-hour day for working women.

Congressman Peters pointed out in his speech before the House last March that "during nearly 20 years men employed by the government as laborers or as mechanics have had the eight-hour day, and in this very Congress a law has been enacted extending this limitation of hours for men to laborers and mechanics employed by contractors doing work for the federal government. This is largely a physiological question. Since we consider it wise to protect by an eight-hour day, so far as we can, the men working directly and indirectly for the government, how much more necessary it is that we make every effort to give similar protection to as large a proportion as possible of the future mothers of the citizenship of this country."

The investigation of the federal bureau of labor showed that about 70 per cent of the working women investigated, who were employed in the mercantile establishments of the District worked overtime during the week before Christmas in the year of 1912. Thirty-one per cent of this number worked from 75 to 80 hours, 69 per cent worked 70 hours or more during that week. Many have worked 14 to 17 hours on the day before Christmas. Inasmuch as the House of Representatives failed to enact the Peters bill presumably the same overwork again existed last month. The bureau of labor also found excessive hours of labor required in the laundries and such factories as exist in the District. Thus instead of providing a model for the states to copy, the District of Columbia lags in the rear. Congress has power to apply the remedy; the Senate has twice acted favorably. Such national bodies as the National Consumers' League the American Association for Labor Legislation, the American Federation of Labor, are working hard to insure immediate action by the House of Representatives.

DANGEROUS BANKING.

Siegel Savings Department Maintained Without Proper Safeguards.

[New York Evening Post.]

The position in which the failure of the dry goods firm of Henry Siegel & Company has left depositors in the savings bank department maintained by that establishment strongly emphasizes the recommendations hitherto made by the state banking department. The superintendent's annual reports have frequently called attention to the need of closer supervision of this class of deposit institutions, in the interest both of the establishment itself and of the depositors. The gist of the Siegel's receivers' report is that something over, $2,500,000, had been accepted on deposit, from 14,000 to 15,000 separate individuals and that the money thus received had been practically all loaned out to the three dry goods stores which failed last week. Those loans had been made on collateral of the stock of the holding company which controlled these and some other dry goods stores; concerning which the Siegel receiver states that it undoubtedly has some value, but that "no one can tell what is the value of the stock."

Considering all the circumstances of the case, it must be evident that the undertaking amounted to maintenance of a savings bank without any of the safeguards, as to inspection by the state or restriction on investment of deposits, which exist in an ordinary savings bank. Under the present practice, this savings department was classed as a private bank, but, in view of the number and character of the depositors, it is manifestly illogical to assume that the transactions were in line with the keeping of accounts by clients and investors with, say, a Wall street banking house. Nor can it rightly be assumed that customers of the Siegel stores were merely lending money to the dry goods enterprise; for the depositors seem at no time to have been made aware of what disposition was made of the money thus entrusted, or of what collateral stood behind the loan. The principle of the savings bank law is that the state must protect the investment, on any extensive scale, of the savings of the thrifty poor in an institution soliciting such deposits on payment of yearly interest, and the Siegel savings department clearly came within the scope of that principle.

EASTER IN THE GREEK CHURCH.

[The Atlantic.]

The Easter festival stands greatest among the festivals of the Greek church. The priest often asserted that the picture of the Virgin looked very sad on Good Friday and smiled on Easter. Good Friday I flew over the hills to gather wild flowers in which the cross was covered in a little coffin, in commemoration of the burial of Jesus. Shortly after midnight Saturday the church bell pealed the glorious message of the resurrection. I woke up with the words, "Christ is risen!" on my lips. "Indeed He is risen!" was the answer. I kissed the hands of my parents, and we all proceeded to the church to enjoy the glorious Easter ritual.

The supreme moment for me during the Easter mass came when Satan was vanquished by Christ. The entire congregation, following the priest, marched three times around the church, each carrying a lighted taper. Then all marched out of the church, only one man, who represented Satan, remaining inside. He closed the church door and stood close behind it, to prevent the risen Lord from entering into heaven.

The priest, who represented the Christ, approached the door with the multitude behind him and in a most solemn voice chanted the words of the psalmist: "Lift up your heads, O ye gates, and be ye lifted up, ye everlasting doors, and the King of Glory shall come in!" The man inside said in a sneering tone, "Who is this King of Glory?" "The Lord of Hosts," said the priest, "he is the King of Glory!" Thrice was the chant repeated; then the hindering Satan vanquished barked like a dog, and the priest forced the door open and marched in with the multitude, chanting, "Let God arise and let his enemies be scattered!"

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Probably snow tonight; Friday, unsettled; warmer tonight; moderate southwest winds.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Forecast for southern New England—Local snows and warmer tonight; Friday, unsettled; moderate south and southwest winds.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Forecast for northern New England—Unsettled and warmer tonight and Friday; probably local snows; moderate variable winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

A general reaction to warmer weather has taken place over almost the entire country, breaking up the eastern cold wave and causing high morning temperatures in western districts, particularly in the states between the northern Rockies and plateau states and the Missouri valley. In New England the lowest last night was at Northfield, Vermont, 20 below zero, rising to 2 below at 8 a. m. The northwestern depression has advanced southeastward to the Lake region, but shows no marked energy as yet. The disturbance in the Lake region has caused a few light snowfalls at scattered stations, and there has been precipitation, generally light, in most northwestern districts. Cloudy weather prevails generally except in the South, where there is some clear sky. In New York city at 8 a. m. the temperature was 24, Boston 17, Washington 30, Jacksonville 42, St. Louis 40, Chicago 38, Des Moines 32, Salt Lake City 44, San Francisco 46 and Portland, Oregon, 44.

ALMOST UP TO FREEZING.

Rapid Rise of the Mercury Followed by Light Snowstorm.

Ice Cutters at Work on All the Ponds—Plumbers Overrun With Orders.

A change has come. It was anticipated Wednesday, but then it was not supposed that it would be so complete The temperature dropped Wednesday, until 8 o'clock, when it stood at 15, and there it held for some hours, finally going up a little. At 8:30 this morning it was 18, but then it began going up faster. Soon looking at thermometers thought of the good old summertime, for it approached and finally passed the 30 mark, below which it had been since Monday noon.

Comparisons are sometimes odious, and then again they may be pleasant. This comparison is pleasant to the great majority. It shows the temperatures at 8 a. m., noon and 2 p. m. on the following days: Tuesday, 0-2-2; Wednesday 1-14-17; Thursday, 24-31-31.

Wednesday night a southwest storm was announced, but it must have been switched somewhere. This morning, at 10:53, it began snowing—pretty quiet and as if it meant business. What little wind there was came from the east. After a while it really snowed, and when the schools dismissed at noon the children had a great time sliding, and older folks had troubles of their own, where the little ones made the sidewalk slippery. It looked as if the snow might shift to rain.

The ice cutters are at work. Good 8-inch ice is being run in at Lily pond and the men at Green End pond are making ready. Something depends on the weather. At Green End Mr. Jurgens began running in ice this noon. He has good 6-inch ice, which will serve as well as thicker. Above, Hermann Frasch is at work. The new house which Tasso Bros. built, just south of the Frasch house, is not yet ready, the run not being complete. Good ice is being cut out of town, on the smaller ponds.

The schools were run just as if it were not cold; that is, no schools were obliged to close. It might have been as well to have called off some of the sessions, as but few pupils reported in some rooms, but close attention to work enabled all the janitors to have the schools fit for the children and none were sent home.

The suggestion of sounding the noon school signal on such mornings as Tuesday and Wednesday occurred to many. Brockton has such a rule, but it is the only city of which Superintendent Lull knows. The rule seems a good one, though it may be years before such an occasion again offers.

The demands upon plumbers and pipers during the past three days have been so numerous, for so many big and little frost troubles, that the men have been able to accommodate only a portion of the places to which they have been called, and it will take days to make temporary repairs and much longer to undo the damage done before the cold snap the contractors were sending out of town for pipers, owing to the insufficient force to meet the work they had on hand, and while many of these men have been taken off the regular work to meet the emergency there are not enough for the demands, and all the bookkeepers can do is to make promises that some time repairs will be made. It is a happy thing for many that the weather has taken a more moderate turn, for it will be possible for some to worry along with a portion of their heating plants in operation.

As the weather moderates, and pipes which were frozen thaw out, people are beginning to realize just what did happen in those two nights and one day when things "friz." There was certainly some action by the cold. Some of the old ideas about no more old-fashioned winters, no frost etc. will be changed. Also, it is agreed that the old-fashioned and despised stove was the one "best bet" during the colds nap and generally it was the kitchen stove.

Steamer City of Newport did not make her trip from Providence Wednesday afternoon, because of the ice in the bay. The ice began drifting down this morning. An unusually high tide started it, and as there was no head wind the ice seemed to travel much as in years past, toward the ocean, some of it coming into Newport harbor. Some ice formed in the slips during the recent cold snap—or the present cold snap.

St George's School suffered severely from the frigid weather and its heating system was considerably damaged by frozen and burst radiators. Around town many cannot understand why the radiators in their own homes froze up, but this is hardly as bad as at the Training Station where it is said that in one building the steam gauge froze.

The departure of the intense cold has enabled the railroads to return to the regular time table, and trains arrive and leave on time.

The gulls have been provided with shipe, by the ice floating down the bay and into the harbor.

NEW OPERA HOUSE MUSIC.

Several "Rags" and "Vested Choir" on Bill, with "Pinafore" Next Week.

"The Base Ball Rag," which made such a hit in Boston, is to be one of the numbers in the new bill of the Homan Musical Stock Company, which will contain a number of other "rags." There is also in this bill "The Vested Choir," with Miss Shannon in the leading role. This is more classical and the settings are arranged to bring out the full effect.

Next week a tabloid version of the old popular opera "H. M. S. Pinafore" will be given. The "Kiddies" in engagement in Concord, N. H., were favorably spoken of by the press, and the public was advised that it was worth seeing. The soloists were well spoken of and the choruses were referred to as especially fine. The production is put on with proper stage settings and the tabloid brings back many old and pleasant memories of comic opera days.

GEOGRAPHY TALKS.

Mr. Brown of the Normal School to Give Saturday Lectures Before Teachers.

Superintendent Lull has received notice that Mr Robert M. Brown, who has charge of the geography in the State Normal School, will begin his series of talks on geography before the teachers of this city Saturday, January 24, and continue on successive Saturdays. He expects to give 10 lectures and the series is in the form of an extension of the work of the Normal School. The matter of geography study has recently received considerable attention, and many, for years, have felt that much effort is wasted in this study. In addition to the teachers of Newport, Superintendent Lull will invite those of Jamestown, Middletown and Portsmouth to attend the lectures. The talks being on Saturdays, all will have the time.

JAMESTOWN.

Conanicut Council Officers Installed—Slight Fire in Knowles House.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The newly elected officers of Conanicut Council, Royal Arcanum, were installed Wednesday evening by District Deputy Grand Regent Thomas B. Tanner of Newport, assisted by Past Regent Horace S. Brown acting as grand guide. The officers installed were as follows:

Regent—Albert A. Boone.
Vice Regent—George L. Chandler.
Orator—Arthur M. Mendenhall.
Past Regent—Adolphus W. Knowles.
Secretary—George H. Carr.
Collector—Percival Gibson.
Treasurer—William A. Hern.
Chaplain—William Williams.
Guide—John Robinson, Jr.
Warden—Ernest Littlefield.
Senity—Frank S. Peterson
Trustee, for three years—George W. Locke.

Ten members of Coronet Council came over from Newport and were hospitably received by Conanicut Council, a chowder being served and a general social occupying the time until the departure of the guests for home. Among the visitors were Regent Lewis J. Norton, Vice Regent William H Honnen and Chaplian Albert E Honnen.

An invitation was extended to Conanicut Council to visit Newport on the occasion of the installation of the officers, Friday evening, January 21.

An alarm of fire was rung shortly before 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and the men were called almost directly across the street from Station 1 to the home of Captain A. G. Knowles. They found little to do, although it was evident that a blaze had been well under way when discovered.

Mr. Knowles's mother, who was the only one in the house at the time, found a lively blaze in a wood box behind a stove on the second floor. About the same time smoke coming from the roof was seen by a neighbor and an alarm was turned in. Mrs. Knowles had done such good work in fighting the blaze that no water was turned on, although it was necessary to do some chopping as the fire had worked into the partition.

Mrs. Knowles's hands were slightly burned and her hair singed in fighting the blaze. The damage will amount to about $50, covered by insurance.

Mr. G. D. Anthony left today for Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, for treatment for cancer.

Ice cutting commenced this morning, the ice being about 9 inches thick. Clarke and Littlefield are at work on the north reservoir and Carr on his pond farther up the island. All are finding it difficult to obtain a full force of men.

Mr. L. E. Peckham has gone on a business trip to New Jersey.

MR. SEABURY'S ARTICLE ON THE KENSICO DAM.

The Engineering Record for January 10 contains a four-page, illustrated article on "Constructing the Kensico Dam," written by George T Seabury, son of the late T. Mumford Seabury of this city. Mr. Seabury is principal assistant to the division engineer in charge of construction, board of water supply, New York city. The article is illustrated from photographs showing the progress of the work on the great dam which is being built in connection with the Catskill aqueduct to supply water to New York.

THE STEVENS-COOK WEDDING.

Invitations have been received here for the wedding of Miss Emma Comly Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Robert B. Minturn Cook of Port Chester, N. Y., to Mr Charles Henry Stevens son of Mr. and Mrs Henry C. Stevens, Jr., of this city, Wednesday, January 21, at 6 30 o'clock. The wedding will take place at the residence of the bride's grandparents in Port Chester and invitations have been sent out to 150 persons. The bride will be attended by Miss Pauline Stevens, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, and two bridesmaids. There will be six ushers from Port Chester and Baltimore. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will be at home after Monday, March 2, at the Homestead Apartments, Charles and Thirty-first streets, Baltimore.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr and Mrs J. J. Rooney have gone to New York on a visit.

—Mr. Harold S Vanderbilt has been elected commodore of the Seawanaker Corinthian Yacht Club.

—Mrs Charles Schonborg who was operated on at the Newport Hospital New Year's day, is improving.

—At a class meeting at the Rogers High School Wednesday afternoon the 1914-1915 class dance, which has been much discussed, was again postponed, this time indefinitely.

—All the fishermen in port, waiting for something less Arctic in weather, went out this morning with the exception of Captain Jim Kelley. He made a start, but the cylinder head of his engine broke and he decided to remain.

—The second-hand engine operated by steam piped from torpedo boat Biddeb is still furnishing power for running the machinery at the Torpedo Station. Tuesday the new oil engines were given another run by a builders expert and pronounced all right.

—Captain Dennis H. Currie signal corps, U. S. A., formerly attached to the coast artillery corps and on duty at Fort Adams, has been detached from the headquarters Southern department, April 1, and ordered to Texas City to command Field Company D, signal corps.

—The extent of the damage to the heating apparatus of the First Methodist Episcopal Church proves so great, and the work of making repairs so extensive, that it will be impossible to hold meetings of any kind in the building before next week. Special arrangements will be made for the Sunday services.

BAKER ELECTED JUDGE OF DISTRICT COURT.

results of the county caucuses in the cases of the judges at Warwick and Woonsocket, and just what effect this would have on the vote in grand committee today was what worried the Newport men. Probably also it worried others. There were visions of a combination of forces, and a possible coronation with the Democrats, which might turn things over.

The Democrats in their general caucus voted to support those recommended by the county members. In the case of Newport this meant that the Democrats would support any plan favored by Messrs Maher and Sullivan, the only two Democrat members from the county.

It was announced that the Republican managers would keep their hands off, but there was some talk up the river of interference in the case of Warwick.

Wednesday night many of the members of the legislature gathered down town and had an exceedingly warm discussion over the alleged interference of the governor and General Wilson with the members, relative to the nomination of certain judges in the caucus in the afternoon. It is alleged that a resident of Block Island spoke in a very disparaging manner of the governor's activity, whereupon one of the colonels on the governor's staff flared up and a senator just prevented an ordinary fist fight. As a result there were this morning all sorts of stories floating about the corridors of the State House, in consequence of which both the governor and General Wilson issued statements.

Governor Pothier admits that he called up General Wilson and asked him to come to the State House and assist in the re-election of Judge Hebert of the Fourth district. Further, he did say that he considered it poor leadership which would allow the jumping of Mr Champlin, who had been a resident of the town but six months, over the present incumbent. The governor states that he did not wish to appear to criticize General Wilson personally.

General Wilson, in his statement denies any interference with the county or general caucuses. He says he has been keeping his hands off because of the vote of the state central committee. He admits that Governor Pothier appealed to him but says he refused to take any action or even to go to the capitol.

MISAPPREHENSION ABOUT LAW.

Financial Institutions Send Payment on Income Tax to Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—Despite all the thousands of forms and scores of regulations issued by the Treasury Department concerning the manner in which the income tax is to be paid it has been unable to clear up misapprehensions about the law. Within the last few days two checks have been received at the department in payment of the tax on income withheld at the source. The tax is payable to the collector of internal revenue in the proper district and in each case the Treasury forwarded the check to a collector, to be returned later to Washington.

One of the surprising features was that the checks came, not from individuals who might misinterpret the law without consultation with lawyers or others well informed, but from financial institutions which officials expected would know better. With the sending out, however, of hundreds of thousands of forms to be used by individuals, the department expects shortly to receive hundreds of checks and money orders in payment of the tax.

FOR A MONTH'S PRACTICE.

Ten English Polo Players Will Arrive in New York May 8.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Ten English polo players, four of whom will be selected to play in the games of the international match for the Westchester cup, at Meadow Brook, in June, will arrive here May 8. Two weeks later the English polo ponies, 20 in number, will arrive here. The cup chanengers will come direct from Spain, where they will take part in the early spring practice games. They will have only a month to practice, as the first game is scheduled to take place June 9.

Last year the English polo players arrived six weeks before the games started. They claim that they began to "stale off" in their physical condition just before the games commenced. In order to prevent a similar occurrence this spring the players decided to practice for only a month in this country prior to the opening of the games. Last year the ponies arrived a month before the games took place. Now it is proposed to have them reach these shores about 10 days before the games begin. The trainers of the ponies believe the ponies will show to better advantage under this schedule than if allowed to arrive here a month ahead of the time. Ten days will just permit them to recover from effects of the voyage and put them on edge for the big matches.

BANGOR OPERA HOUSE BURNED.

Two Firemen Killed by Falling of Building's Rear Wall.

BANGOR, Maine, Jan 15—Two firemen were killed early today in fighting a fire that destroyed the Bangor Opera House, the principal theatre in the city. The property loss is placed at $75,000.

John Leonard and Walter Morrill, both members of Hose Company No. , were buried under a mass of debris when the rear wall of the building collapsed. Leonard was dead when removed from under the wreckage, and Morrill died before he reached the hospital.

John Collins another fireman was badly injured about the spine, but it is believed he will recover. Minor injuries were received by District Chief Frank Granville and Hoseman Dennis Curran, Jr., and James Flanagan.

The fire which is believed to have started in the boiler room, burned slowly until it reached the auditorium, where it spread rapidly and soon the entire structure was ablaze.

Zero weather and low water pressure made the work of the firemen extremely difficult. The low pressure is said to have been due to the weather, as water taps all over the city were left open last night to prevent the freezing of the pipes.

The theatre which had a seating capacity of 1 200 and was considered one of the best playhouses in the state was built in 1852. It had been improved recently and was valued at $75,000.

ALMOST UP TO FREEZING.

Rapid Rise of the Mercury Followed by Light Snowstorm.

Ice Cutters at Work on All the Ponds—Plumbers Overrun With Orders.

A change has come, it was anticipated Wednesday, but then it was not supposed that it would be so complete. The temperature dropped Wednesday, until 8 o'clock, when it stood at 15, and there it held for some hours, finally going up a little. At 6:30 this morning it was 18, but then it began going up faster. Soon looking at thermometers thought of the good old summertime, for it approached and finally passed the 30 mark, below which it had been since Monday noon.

Comparisons are sometimes odious, and then again they may be pleasant. This comparison is pleasant to the great majority. It shows the temperatures at 8 a. m., noon and 2 p. m. on the following days: Tuesday, 0-2-2; Wednesday 1-14-17; Thursday, 24-31-31.

Wednesday night a southwest storm was announced, but it must have been switched somewhere. This morning, at 10:55, it began snowing—pretty quiet and as if it meant business. What little wind there was came from the east. After a while it really snowed, and when the schools dismissed at noon the children had a great time sliding, and older folks had troubles of their own, where the little ones made the sidewalk slippery. It looked as if the snow might drift to rain.

The ice cutters are at work. Good 8-inch ice is being run in at Lily pond and the men at Green End pond are making ready. Something depends on the weather. At Green End Mr. Jurgens began running in ice this noon. He has good 6-inch ice, which will serve as well as thicker. Above, Hermann Frasch is at work. The new house which Tasso Bros. built, just south of the Frasch house, is not yet ready, the run not being complete. Good ice is being cut out of town, on the smaller ponds.

The schools were run just as if it were not cold; that is, no schools were obliged to close. It might have been as well to have called off some of the sessions, as but few pupils reported in some rooms, but close attention to work enabled all the janitors to have the schools fit for the children and none were sent home.

The suggestion of sounding the noschool signal on such mornings as Tuesday and Wednesday occurred to many. Brockton has such a rule, but it is the only city of which Superintendent Lull knows. The rule seems a good one, though it may be years before such an occasion again offers.

The demands upon plumbers and pipers during the past three days have been so numerous, for so many big and little frost troubles, that the men have been able to accommodate only a portion of the places to which they have been called, and it will take days to make temporary repairs and much longer to undo the damage done. Before the cold snap the contractors were sending out of town for pipers, owing to the insufficient force to meet the work they had on hand, and while many of these men have been taken off the regular work to meet the emergency there are not enough for the demands, and all the bookkeepers can do is to make promises that some time repairs will be made. It is a happy thing for many that the weather has taken a more moderate turn, for it will be possible for some to worry along with a portion of their heating plants in operation.

As the weather moderates, and pipes which were frozen thaw out, people are beginning to realize just what did happen in those two nights and one day when things froze. There is certainly some action by the cold. Some of the old ideas about no more old-fashioned winters, no frost etc., will be changed. Also, it is agreed that the old-fashioned and despised stove was the one best bet during the cold nap and generally it was the kitchen stove.

Steamer City of Newport did not make her trip from Providence Wednesday afternoon, because of the ice in the bay. The ice began drifting down this morning. An unusually high tide started it, and as there was no head wind the ice seemed to travel much as in years past, toward the ocean, some of it coming into Newport harbor. Some ice formed in the slips during the recent cold snap—or the present cold snap.

St. George's School suffered severely from the frigid weather and its heating system was considerably damaged by frozen and burst radiators. Around town many cannot understand why the radiators in their own homes froze up, but this is hardly as bad as at the Training Station where it is said that in one building the steam gauge froze.

The departure of the intense cold has enabled the railroads to return to the regular time table, and trains arrive and leave on time.

The gulls have been provided with ships, by the ice floating down the bay and into the harbor.

NEW OPERA HOUSE MUSIC.

Several "Rags" and "Vested Choir" on Bill, with "Pinafore" Next Week.

"The Base Ball Rag," which made such a hit in Boston, is to be one of the numbers in the new bill of the Homan Musical Stock Company, which will contain a number of other "rags." There is also in this bill "The Vested Choir," with Miss Shannon in the leading role. This is more classical and the settings are arranged to bring out the full effect.

Next week a tabloid version of the old popular opera "H. M. S. Pinafore" will be given. The "Kiddies" in engagement in Concord, N. H., were favorably spoken of by the press, and the public was advised that it was worth seeing. The soloists were well spoken of and the choruses were referred to as especially fine. The production is put on with proper stage settings and the tabloid brings back many old and pleasant memories of comic opera days.

GEOGRAPHY TALKS.

Mr. Brown of the Normal School to Give Saturday Lectures Before Teachers.

Superintendent Lull has received notice that Mr. Robert M. Brown, who has charge of the geography in the State Normal School, will begin his series of talks on geography before the teachers of this city Saturday, January 24, and continue on successive Saturdays. He expects to give 10 talks and the series is in the form of an extension of the work of the Normal School. The matter of geography study has recently received considerable attention, and many, for years, have felt that much effort is wasted in this study. In addition to the teachers of Newport, Superintendent Lull will invite those of Jamestown, Middletown and Portsmouth to attend the lectures. The talks being on Saturdays, all will have the time.

JAMESTOWN.

Conanicut Council Officers Installed—Slight Fire in Knowles House.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The newly elected officers of Conanicut Council, Royal Arcanum, were installed Wednesday evening by District Deputy Grand Regent Thomas B. Tanner of Newport, assisted by Past Regent Horace S. Brown acting as grand guide. The officers installed were as follows:

Regent—Albert A. Boone.
Vice Regent—George L. Chandler.
Orator—Arthur M. Mendenhall.
Past Regent—Adolphus W. Knowles.
Secretary—George H. Carr.
Collector—Percival Gibson.
Treasurer—William A. Hern.
Chaplain—William Williams.
Guide—John Robinson, Jr.
Warden—Ernest Littlefield.
Sentry—Frank S. Peterson.
Trustee, for three years—George W. Locke.

Ten members of Coronet Council came over from Newport and were hospitably received by Conanicut Council, a chowder being served and a general social occupying the time until the departure of the guests for home. Among the visitors were Regent Lewis J. Norton, Vice Regent William H. Hennen and Chaplain Albert E. Hennen.

An invitation was extended to Conanicut Council to visit Newport on the occasion of the installation of the officers, Friday evening, January 21.

An alarm of fire was rung shortly before 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and the men were called almost directly across the street from Station 1 to the home of Captain A. G. Knowles. They found little to do, although it was evident that a blaze had been well under way when discovered.

Mr. Knowles's mother, who was the only one in the house at the time, found a lively blaze in a wood box behind a stove on the second floor. About the same time smoke coming from the roof was seen by a neighbor and an alarm was turned in. Mrs. Knowles had done such good work in fighting the blaze that no water was turned on, although it was necessary to do some chopping, as the fire had worked into the partition.

Mrs. Knowles's hands were slightly burned and her hair singed in fighting the blaze. The damage will amount to about $50, covered by insurance.

Mr. G. D. Anthony left today for Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, for treatment for cancer.

Ice cutting commenced this morning, the ice being about 9 inches thick. Clarke and Littlefield are at work on the north reservoir and Carr on his pond farther up the island. All are finding it difficult to obtain a full force of men.

Mr. L. E. Peckham has gone on a business trip to New Jersey.

MR. SEABURY'S ARTICLE ON THE KENSICO DAM.

The Engineering Record for January 10 contains a four-page, illustrated article on "Constructing the Kensico Dam," written by George T. Seabury, son of the late T. Mumford Seabury of this city. Mr. Seabury is principal assistant to the division engineer in charge of construction, board of water supply, New York city. The article is illustrated from photographs showing the progress of the work on the great dam which is being built in connection with the Catskill aqueduct to supply water to New York.

THE STEVENS-COOK WEDDING.

Invitations have been received here for the wedding of Miss Emma Comly Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Minturn Cook of Port Chester, N. Y., to Mr. Charles Henry Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Stevens, Jr., of this city, Wednesday, January 21, at 6:30 o'clock. The wedding will take place at the residence of the bride's grandparents in Port Chester and invitations have been sent out to 150 persons. The bride will be attended by Miss Pauline Stevens, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, and two bridesmaids. There will be six ushers from Port Chester and Baltimore. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will be at home after Monday, March 2, at the Homestead Apartments, Charles and Thirty-first streets, Baltimore.

—The second-hand engine operated by steam piped from torpedo boat Blakely is still furnishing power for running the machinery at the Torpedo Station. Tuesday the new oil engines were given another run by a builders' expert and pronounced all right.

—Captain Dennis H. Currie, signal corps, U. S. A., formerly attached to the coast artillery corps and on duty at Fort Adams, has been detached from the headquarters, Southern department, April 1, and ordered to Texas City to command Field Company D, signal corps.

—The extent of the damage to the heating apparatus of the First Methodist Episcopal Church proves so great, and the work of making repairs so extensive, that it will be impossible to hold meetings of any kind in the building before next week. Special arrangements will be made for the Sunday services.

BAKER ELECTED JUDGE OF DISTRICT COURT.

results of the county caucuses in the cases of the judges at Warwick and Woonsocket, and just what effect this would have on the vote in grand committee today was what worried the Newport men. Probably also it worried others. There were visions of a combination of forces, and a possible combination with the Democrats, which might turn things over.

The Democrats in their general caucus voted to support those recommended by the county members. In the case of Newport this meant that the Democrats would support any plan favored by Messrs. Maher and Sullivan, the only two Democrat members from the county.

It was announced that the Republican managers would keep their hands off, but there was some talk up the river of interference in the case of Warwick.

Wednesday night many of the members of the legislature gathered down town and had an exceedingly warm discussion over the alleged interference of the governor and General Wilson with the members, relative to the nomination of certain judges in the caucus in the afternoon. It is alleged that a resident of Block Island spoke in a very disparaging manner of the governor's activity, whereupon one of the colonels on the governor's staff flared up and a senator just prevented an ordinary fist fight. As a result there were this morning all sorts of stories floating about the corridors of the State House, in consequence of which both the governor and General Wilson issued statements.

Governor Pothier admits that he called up General Wilson and asked him to come to the State House and assist in the re-election of Judge Hebert of the Fourth district. Further, he did say that he considered it poor leadership which would allow the jumping of Mr. Champlin, who had been a resident of the town but six months, over the present incumbent. The governor states that he did not wish to appear to criticize General Wilson personally.

General Wilson, in his statement denies any interference with the county or general caucuses. He says he has been keeping his hands off because of the vote of the state central committee. He admits that Governor Pothier appealed to him, but says he refused to take any action or even to go to the capitol.

MISAPPREHENSION ABOUT LAW.

Financial Institutions Send Payment on Income Tax to Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Despite all the thousands of forms and scores of regulations issued by the Treasury Department concerning the manner in which the income tax is to be paid, it has been unable to clear up misapprehensions about the law. Within the last few days two checks have been received at the department in payment of the tax on income withheld at the source. The tax is payable to the collector of internal revenue in the proper district and in each case the Treasury forwarded the check to a collector, to be returned after to Washington.

One of the surprising features was that the checks came not from individuals who unfamiliar with the law without consultation with lawyers or others well informed, but from financial institutions which, it might expected would know better. With the sending out however of hundreds of thousands of forms to be used by individuals, the department expects shortly to receive hundreds of checks and money orders in payment of the tax.

FOR A MONTH'S PRACTICE.

Ten English Polo Players Will Arrive in New York May 8.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Ten English polo players, four of whom will be selected to play in the games of the international match for the Westchester cup, at Meadow Brook, in June, will arrive here May 8. Two weeks later the English polo ponies, 37 in number, will arrive here. The cup challengers will come direct from Spain, where they will take part in the early spring practice games. They will have only a month to practice, as the first game is scheduled to take place June 8.

Last year the English polo players arrived six weeks before the games started. They claim that they began to "stale off" in their physical condition just before the games commenced. In order to prevent a similar occurrence this spring the players decided to practice for only a month in this country prior to the opening of the games. Last year the ponies arrived a month before the games took place. Now it is proposed to have them reach these shores about 10 days before the games begin. The trainers of the ponies believe the ponies will show to better advantage under this schedule than if allowed to arrive more a month ahead of the time. Ten days will just permit them to recover from effects of the voyage and put them on edge for the big matches.

BANGOR OPERA HOUSE BURNED.

Two Firemen Killed by Falling of Building's Rear Wall.

BANGOR, Maine, Jan. 15.—Two firemen were killed early today in fighting a fire that destroyed the Bangor Opera House, the principal theatre in the city. The property loss is placed at $75,000.

John Leonard and Walter Morrill, both members of Hose Company No. 4, were buried under a mass of debris when the rear wall of the building collapsed. Leonard was dead when removed from under the wreckage. Morrill died before he reached the hospital.

John Collins, another fireman, was badly injured about the spine, but it is believed he will recover. Minor injuries were received by District Chief Frank Granville and Hoseman Dennis Curran, Jr., and James Flanagan.

The fire, which is believed to have started in the boiler room, burned slowly until it reached the auditorium, where it spread rapidly and soon the entire structure was ablaze.

Zero weather and low water pressure made the work of the firemen extremely difficult. The low pressure is said to have been due to the weather, as water taps all over the city were left open last night to prevent the freezing of the pipes.

The theatre, which had a seating capacity of 1,200 and was considered one of the best playhouses in the state, was built in 1882. It had been improved recently and was valued at $75,000.

THE NEGROES IN 1864.

First Year of Emancipation Found the Freed Slaves in a Dilemma

[Boston Transcript]

The first week of 1864 was not filled with startling events and press and people were not disturbed in their reflections on the condition of the negroes at the close of the first year of emancipation. Opinion seems to have been divided on the question whether the freed men and freed women had made progress. Some observers far distant from the slave states, who had known only the negroes settled in the North were greatly disappointed because when the shackles were struck off the slaves did not at once manifest the possession of great capability for civic development. The freed negroes indeed acted precisely as they might have been expected to act. They were puzzled what to do with their freedom. The old plantation life had gone and the old plantation very likely had gone with it. It was occupied by hostile troops who lived off it and who were alien in their ways to the negroes to whom it had been home. Negroes like other people had to eat to live. They found it hard to obtain employment. The barren plundered plantation would not be safe for them in the event of the fortunes of war carrying the Union troops away from it.

In the dilemma emancipation had thrust upon them the negroes saw safety and food only in the great concentration camps established for them within the Union lines. There were such camps, either established or tolerated in many of the Southern cities held by the Union forces. Some of these camps like Topsy simply grew. In the neighborhood of Memphis there was one of these refugee gatherings. Thousands of negroes flocked to it for shelter and food but apparently had little of the latter. For a contemporary account says that there were 4,000 deaths from destitution among the contrabands in this camp in October, November and December, 1863. Besides the contrabands in the camps there were thousands of others who roamed from place to place governed by the impulse to wander. To care for these hordes troubled the Union commanders. From among the men they could pick those willing to work at road making and at the heavy digging the army required, but this was only one element of the swarms that gathered around the Union lines. The very old and the very young had to be helped, for commanders were anxious that no charge of indifference to the claims of the freedmen should be forwarded to the North to be utilized by extreme abolitionists or radicals.

TO BAR IMMIGRANTS.

Drastic Measure Against Foreigners Expected to Pass at This Session.

Woman Suffragists Carry Fight Into Home Districts of Opposing Congressmen.

[Washington correspondence of the News]

WASHINGTON, Jan 14—What about those foreigners who come to this country work, save and take their earnings back to the old country? Also how about the millions which foreigners are sending back to the old country every year either because they do not trust our institutions or because they want the money at home when they return? These are some of the questions which will come up when the immigration bill is considered. The men who opposed the immigration bill in the last Congress and who have been in favor of wide open doors for immigrants have built up such a formidable party on the other side that they will be forced to accept the most drastic bill ever proposed during the coming session of Congress.

Statistics are being prepared showing how the cities have been overcrowded with foreigners how the land of the country does not feed the cities save by such increased prices as to make the problem of living hard to solve. But more particularly efforts will be made to show that while the foreigner gives his labor he takes its earnings abroad. The arguments of the labor organizations have been that if the foreigners were kept out there would be better wages and the money spent for wages would be distributed in this country.

A bill which will be at least as strong as that vetoed by President Taft will be passed during the present session.

I have forgotten what wise old Roman it was who said, "Carry the war into Africa" when he wanted to get the best of the Carthaginians but we on out. That is what the woman suffragists are doing. They have announced that they will go into the Congressional districts of those who oppose the woman suffrage amendment and try to defeat such members. They will on the other hand try to elect the members who support the amendment.

That's politics. That is what the labor organizations do. That is the way any great organization achieves success. It carries the war into the Congressional districts well knowing that the most important matter to the average Congressman is his re election. No man is going to stand upon his conscientious convictions when he can be elected by stifling those convictions for a time.

The activities of the one cent postage advocates have been increased. The intimation that by re arrangement of rates one cent postage may be brought about has caused the advocates to double their efforts to secure an increase upon second class mail. While Postmaster General Burleson and Third Assistant Dockery were mild in their recommendations the fact that they held out hope for one cent letter postage has given the advocates of that proposition renewed assurance.

The man who started the movement to postpone a public building bill this session has certainly gone up against a stone wall. "What!" exclaims the Congressman. "No public building bill just as we are going into campaign. Well I think they'll have another guess coming on that proposition."

Just how the present Congress is going to pass a law which will give farmers more advantages than other people in the matter of credits at banks is difficult to see. Still in the last session a provision was inserted which gave the workingman an advantage in the matter of prosecutions and the labor organizations reinstating that the appropriation bill provision be made permanent law. The farmers have just as many votes as the labor organization and perhaps more. They ought to get their rights.

This whole conservation game remarked a Western member of Congress is a fad on the part of persons who have money enough to live on and who want an outlet for their energies—something to interest and amuse them. That is why we have so much conservation talk. But that hardly explains why so many men with their minds overloaded with business and politics are going into the conservation movement. It is more than a fad.

Every car said Senator Borah of Idaho there are moving across the border into Canada 100,000 of our best citizens seeking homes under another flag because much of the domain which belonged to the people of this country has been transferred and given to private corporations.

THE NEGROES IN 1864.

First Year of Emancipation Found the Freed Slaves in a Dilemma.

[Boston Transcript.]

The first week of 1864 was not filled with thrilling events and press and people were not disturbed in their reflections on the condition of the negroes at the close of the first year of emancipation. Opinion seems to have been divided on the question whether the freed men and freed women had made progress. Some observers far distant from the slave states, who had known only the negroes settled in the North, were greatly disappointed because when the shackles were struck off, the slaves did not at once manifest fac possession of great capability for civic development. The freed negroes indeed acted precisely as they might have been expected to act. They were puzzled what to do with their freedom. The old plantation life had gone, and the old plantation very likely had gone with it. It was occupied by hostile troops who lived off it, and who were alien in their ways to the negroes to whom it had been "home." Negroes, like other people, had to eat to live. They found it hard to obtain employment. The barren, plundered plantation would not be safe for them in the event of the fortunes of war carrying the Union troops away from it.

In the dilemma emancipation had thrust upon them the negroes saw safety and food only in the great concentration camps established for them within the Union lines. There were such camps, either established or tolerated in many of the Southern cities held by the Union forces. Some of these camps, like Topsy, simply grew. In the neighborhood of Memphis there was one of those refuges gathering. Thousands of negroes flocked to it for shelter and food, but apparently had little of the latter, for a contemporary account says that there were 4,000 deaths from destitution among the contrabands in this camp in October, November and December, 1863. Besides the contrabands in the camps, there were thousands of others who roamed from place to place, governed by the impulse to wander. To care for these hordes troubled the Union commanders. From among the men they could pick those willing to work at road-making and at the heavy digging the army required, but this was only one element of the swarms that gathered around the Union lines. The very old and the very young had to be helped, for commanders were anxious that no charge of indifference to the claims of the freedmen should be forwarded to the North to be utilized by extreme abolitionists or radicals.

Ussher at St. Bartholomew's Church. The bride is a daughter of Mr. La Forge's late wife's sister. They will return here shortly to reside.

—The old-time beach clammers have been busy in spite of the severe weather, as the storm has washed in the largest supply of beach clams in some years. There has been also a great quantity of a less known food—cockles, which have been gathered by bushels at the First and Second beaches, and sold largely to Italian residents.

—Miss Ruth Weaver gave a whist party at her residence on Third street Wednesday evening, at which musical selections were rendered by Mrs. James Douglass, Miss Ethel Twigg and Messrs. Morton Weaver and James Douglass, and recitations by Mr. Brightman. The prizes for whist were awarded to Miss Ethel Twigg, Mrs. Fertis Hoyt and Messrs. Peter Turner and Ainsworth B. Corcoran.

—Things are still quiet in police circles. This morning there was nothing to report except that about all the high officials except Sergeant Leary were out of town for various reasons. The sergeant was looking as cheerful as could be expected under the circumstances. The only other news the station afforded was that a large number of frozen pipes were reported by the police.

BIG FIRES IN 1913.

New England Suffers Large Losses in Numerous Small Blazs.

The Insurance Press in its current issue places the fire loss of 1913 at $203,405,260, with 40 fires showing a loss of more than $500,000 each. Among the places visited by big fires were Hot Springs, Ark., where 515 buildings were destroyed, Savannah, Ga., where there was a loss of $1,500,000; Long Island City, where the loss was a million and but for wire glass windows and sprinkler systems might well have been 10 times that. Dayton suffered half a million loss by the burning of business blocks during the flood. Buffalo had two big fires, one which destroyed a flour mill and elevator and another burned out two factories and a hotel with a loss on both of more than a million. Thus the list goes on, followed by any number of fires not quite reaching the half-million mark. New England was free from large fires but had plenty of small ones, bringing the aggregate loss to large figures.

The publication, in speaking of fire prevention, admits that thus far there has been no great improvement in the number of alarms, but a decided gain in the matter of construction of new buildings and housekeeping details, as a result of the agitation, and the movement is exerting a salutary influence calculated to reduce the fire waste.

FOR PUBLIC WELFARE.

Vincent Astor Uses the Word "Social" in Its New Meaning.

[New York Times.]

Opinions will differ, of course, as to the cogency of the arguments on which Vincent Astor bases his rejection of Socialism as a cure for social and industrial evils. There can be no question, however, that his answer to Upton Sinclair's appeal is an effective refutation of the accusation implied in that appeal—the accusation that Mr. Astor does not realize either the number of the gravity of those evils and has not given to them the serious consideration they deserve.

On the contrary, the statement shows that great wealth, though it came to him without effort, and, as Mr. Sinclair would probably say without desert, on his part, brought with it a sense of responsibilities to be met, as well as, or at any rate in addition to, privileges to be enjoyed. Mr. Astor reveals clearly enough his appreciation of the changes in public sentiment which mark the day and his interest in them. He has been endeavoring to ascertain where he stands, or rather where he should stand, with regard to these changes—which to promote and which to oppose.

He might even be said to reveal his realization of the fact that the possession of such a fortune as his puts him on the defensive, and imposes on him the obligation to inform himself as to his social duties—using the word "social" in a sense very different from that given to it by the rich young man of conventional assumption. He seems to have consulted the recognized authorities in the opposing schools of thought, and to have balanced their contentions before forming his own decision.

This is as important, perhaps, as that he should have reached a decision absolutely right, especially as none of us, whatever we may think, can know that we have reached such a conclusion. Of course, good intentions, in themselves, do not count for much, but they do count for something and this is not the first time that young Astor has evidenced the turning of his attention to the graver problems of the time. One recalls, for instance, his announced purpose to make his big estate up the Hudson an agricultural experimentation station, instead of a place for luxurious enjoyment, and in several other ways he has manifested an effective interest in public, as distinguished from private, welfare.

RAILROAD STRIKE SHOWS SIGNS OF COLLAPSING.

Head of South African Federation and Band Surrender.

Bain and Ten Ringleaders Arrested and Lodged in Jail.

JOHANNESBURG, Jan 15.—Secretary Bain of the South African Federation of Trades and his band of 3,000 comrades, who had barricaded themselves in the Trades Hall here tionally to the police today. Mr. Bain and 10 of the ringleaders were arrested and lodged in jail

The railroad strike showed signs of collapsing this afternoon when 250 men applied for re-instatement at Braamfontein.

The organized workmen of all trades in the Tranevaal and the Orange Free State have almost unanimously thrown down their tools and joined the sympathetic strike ordered by the Federation of Trades, in support of the railroad men who had struck as a protest against the retrenchment policy of the transportation companies. The workmen of Cape Colony and Natal, on the other hand, have hitherto remained at their occupations.

Some of the strikers in this city seem to be in an ugly mood, but are restrained by the presence of large forces of armed police and of the citizen's defense force, over 100,000 of whom answered the call to arms when martial law was proclaimed. Provisions are still fairly plentiful, although high. Most of the bakers' shops and grocery stores are still open.

Bain this morning requested an interview with General Botha, prime minister of the Union of South Africa. The government regarded this as an offer to surrender and replied that the control officer of the region, under the provisions of martial law, had orders to arrest every one in the hall and to use the most drastic measures necessary after warning having been given them that the occupants did not surrender without violence. Strong guards were placed in position to keep close watch on the hall, and no pedestrian or vehicle was permitted to approach near it.

"The Transvaal Leader," a newspaper which had hitherto employed only union labor, issued only four pages this morning. These had been composed by hand instead of typesetting machines, and contained an announcement that in the future non-union workmen would only be engaged on the paper.

Alongst the Rand the situation is reported satisfactory and some of the workmen at the mines have volunteered their services for the protection of property.

FALLS INTO MAIN BELT.

Engineer at Leicester Knitting Plant, Worcester, Killed.

WOONSOCKET, Jan. 15.—Hugh J. Riley, engineer at the Leicester Knitting Company's plant, while alone in the engine room this morning at 10 o'clock fell into the main belt and was instantly killed. His body was torn into bits. The fatality was discovered by Dr. George H. Baker, owner of the plant. The accident caused the shutting down of the mill for the day.

STEAMER COBEQUID COMPLETELY ABANDONED.

and Westport were first to put their small boats into the water and were followed soon by the boats of the Government steamer Lansdowne and tanker Rappahannock. As the work of rescue progressed the sea subsided considerably and no mishaps marred the triumph over the waves.

All hands numbered 108. These included 12 first-cabin passengers and an equal number in the second class. The Westport took off 72 persons and the John L. Cann 24. Mrs. W. C. Zoller and her child were the first to go over the side. Then followed Miss Marguerite and Miss Dorothy James, daughters of the late R. H. James, Mayor of St. George, Bermuda, and two Sisters of Charity. One by one the men were lowered to lifeboats until only Captain Hawson and 11 of his crew were left on deck.

Captain McKinnon of the Westport, the little coastal steamer which rescued 72 persons, said today that when he came alongside the Cobequid he found all the passengers and crew in the captain's cabin, the only dry spot on the steamer. The seas were breaking over the main deck. The Cobequid was lying headed to the westward with the bow down and the stern well out of water.

All of those taken on board the Westport left the Cobequid in three boats launched by the crew of the wrecked vessel. Notwithstanding the gale and the boiling sea, the transfer was accomplished within two hours, without accident. The nine women and children among the passengers were the first to be taken from the Cobequid and hauled on board the Westport.

10:45—The advance in stocks which began late yesterday was continued with undiminished vigor at the opening today. The street plied a favorable construction upon President Wilson's attitude toward anti-trust legislation as unofficially outlined, regarding it as less drastic than had been expected in some quarters. National Biscuit advanced 2¾ and Lehigh Valley, Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie first preferred Atlantic Coastline and International Harvester 1. Profit-taking scaled down some of the Eastern stocks after half an hour's trading, but the rest of the list held up well. Petroleum shares continued to decline Mexican Petroleum lost 1¼, and California Petroleum 1⅝.

Noon—The advance in the market today, embracing both investment and speculative stocks, reflected more hopeful sentiment regarding financial and commercial conditions. News that necessary financing for some of the large railroads was being arranged satisfactorily and unconfirmed reports that various large corporations were coming to terms with the government gave a stimulus to the upward movement. There were indications of investment buying in all sections of the list. Such selling as the market had to contend with came from professional sources in the way of profit taking. Early gains of one to two points were reduced before noon, but the list held up well above yesterday's close. Bonds were steady. Call money, steady, at 2 1-2. Mercantile paper, 1-2 @ 5. Provisions are still fairly plentiful, although high. Most of the bakers' shops and grocery stores are still open.

Bain this morning requested an interview with General Botha, prime minister of the Union of South Africa. The government regarded this as an offer to surrender and replied that the control officer of the region, under the provisions of martial law, had orders to arrest every one in the hall and to use the most drastic measures necessary after warning having been given them that the occupants did not surrender without violence. Strong guards were placed in position to keep close watch on the hall, and no pedestrian or vehicle was permitted to approach near it.

"The Transvaal Leader," a newspaper which had hitherto employed only union labor, issued only four pages this morning. These had been composed by hand instead of type-setting machines, and contained an announcement that in the future non-union workmen would only be engaged on the paper.

Alongst the Rand, the situation is reported satisfactory and some of the workmen at the mines have volunteered their services for the protection of property.

and Westport were first to put their small boats into the water and were followed soon by the boats of the Government steamer Lansdowne and tanker Rappahannock. As the work of rescue progressed the sea subsided considerably and no mishaps marred the triumph over the waves.

All hands numbered 108. These included 12 first-cabin passengers and an equal number in the second class. The Westport took off 72 persons and the John L. Cann 24. Mrs. W. C. Zoller and her child were the first to go over the side. Then followed Miss Marguerite and Miss Dorothy James, daughters of the late R. H. James, Mayor of St. George, Bermuda, and two Sisters of Charity. One by one the men were lowered to lifeboats until only Captain Hawson and 11 of his crew were left on deck.

Captain McKinnon of the Westport, the little coastal steamer which rescued 72 persons, said today that when he came alongside the Cobequid he found all the passengers and crew in the captain's cabin, the only dry spot on the steamer. The seas were breaking over the main deck. The Cobequid was lying headed to the westward, with the bow down and the stern well out of water.

All of those taken on board the Westport left the Cobequid in three boats launched by the crew of the wrecked vessel. Notwithstanding the gale and the boiling sea, the transfer was accomplished within two hours, without accident. The nine women and children among the passengers were the first to be taken from the Cobequid and hauled on board the Westport.

10:45—The advance in stocks which began late yesterday was continued with undiminished vigor at the opening today. The street filed a favorable construction upon President Wilson's attitude toward anti-trust legislation as unofficially outlined, regarding it as less drastic than had been expected in some quarters. National Biscuit advanced 2¾ and Lehigh Valley, Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie first preferred, Atlantic Coastline and International Harvester 1. Profit taking scaled down some of the Eastern stocks after half an hour's trading, but the rest of the list held up well. Petroleum shares continued to decline. Mexican Petroleum lost 1¼, and California Petroleum 1⅜.

Noon—The advance in the market today, embracing both investment and speculative stocks, reflected a more hopeful sentiment regarding financial and commercial conditions. News that necessary financing for some of the large railroads was being arranged satisfactorily and unconfirmed reports that various large corporations were coming to terms with the government gave a stimulus to the upward movement. There were indications of investment buying in all sections of the list. Such selling as the market had to contend with came from professional sources in the way of profit taking. Early gains of one to two points were reduced before noon, but the list held up well above yesterday's close. Bonds were steady. Call money, steady, at 2 1-2. Mercantile paper, 1-2 @ 5. IN MEMORY OF THE MAINE.

Camp Thomas Receives Artistic Tablet Made from Metal from the Wreck.

Camp Thomas, United Spanish War Veterans, has received a memorial tablet made from metal from the wreck of the Maine. It was made at the Washington navy yard and is artistically designed. Liberty is sculptured in a mourning pose and the Maine is shown as she appeared soon after the explosion, while a shield of Stars and Stripes is prominent. Inscribed on the shield is the following:

In Memoriam
The Sinking of the U. S. S. Maine
In Havana Harbor
Feb. 15, 1898.

This tablet has been made out of Metal of the U. S. S. Maine.

ANOTHER DANCING SUCCESS

Reception to Committees of Electricians' and New Year's Eve Balls.

Still another dancing success was scored by the electricians when Mr. Henry G. Riley tendered a reception to the committees of the Electricians' and New Year's Eve balls and their friends Wednesday evening in Music hall. The gathering was just large enough for the dancing, the music for which was rendered by an orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Stella Mallaly. The hall was decorated with alternate strings of small red and blue electric lights, the effect being especially good when the other lights were turned out.

A feature was the singing of Master M. J. Fogarty, a pupil under Professor Albert Commette, who accompanied him on the piano. Master Fogarty has a rich soprano voice with full tone, unusual in a boy's voice, and acquitted himself well. In response to the hearty applause given for his first selection "To Have, To Hold," Master Fogarty sang with pleasing effect "Last Night Was the End of the World."

Dancing began at 8:20, continuing until 10:30, when Mr. Samuel Kirschner took a flashlight of all present. During the intermission all gathered in the hall below for refreshments. The program of 15 dances, all of which were "new," was finished at midnight after which Mr. Kirschner took another flashlight of the group.

As a result of many requests Mr. Riley will hold another ball Easter Monday in Masonic hall, at which the public may be sure to be as much pleased as at the others. He will again have an efficient committee and the electrical effects are experimented to be a feature, as usual.

HOUSE-WARMING PARTY.

First Mid-Winter Dinner Given in New Pembroke Jones Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones gave the first of a series of mid-winter dinners in their new house in New York Tuesday evening, the assembly of their friends assuming the nature of a house-warming party. Dancing was had in the music room after dinner. The event was especially for the enthusiastic dancing set—debutantes of this and last season, and the younger married folk of society. There were more than 100 additional guests for the dancing.

Friday evening Mrs. Jones will give her second dinner, which will be followed by music, the artists including Mme. Alma Gluck, Signor Martinelli of the Metropolitan Opera Company and Mr. Fritz Kreisler. The third in the series is set for Tuesday, January 20, and the fourth will be a large dinner February 3, the guests afterward attending the dance which will be given that night by Mrs. Vanderbilt.

FOR WICKFORD HARBOR.

Congressman Gerry Forwards Bill for Improvement.

Congressman Gerry, who will return to the Capitol the latter part of next week, has sent to Washington for introduction in Congress in his name a bill making an appropriation of $56,500 for the improvement of Wickford harbor, with a view to securing a channel 15 feet deep.

Mr. Gerry has drawn up the measure at the request of the Wickford Welfare Society, which is anxious to have the improvement made so that heavily laden boats can enter the harbor at low tide. A preliminary survey of the proposed improvement has already been made, and a favorable report rendered by the government engineers, but no appropriation for the improvement has ever been made.

BATS PASS CENTURY MARK.

Cranes Lose Chance of Gaining First Place by Bowling Defeat.

Had the Cranes won all three of their events in the Employed Boys' League at the Young Men's Christian Association Wednesday evening, they would have found themselves the holders of first place, but they were able to win but one contest. Each of the three teams won one game, and increased their points over Tuesday's, the positions remaining unchanged. The Bats still lead, having passed the century mark, and now have 104 1-3 points. The Cranes are a close second with 94 1-3, while the Hawks are a poor last with 29 1-3.

In the first bowling match of the evening the Cranes defeated the tail-end Hawk team by the close score of 305-300, the individual scores being: Cranes—Watson 73, Jestings 78, Dillon 77, Olivea 79; total 305. Hawks—DeVilh 78, Ladyman 71, Barker 78, Dent 73, total 300.

The Cranes lost their chance of gaining first place when they were defeated by the Bats in the bowling match, although neither team rolled nearly as well as the losers in the previous contest. The Bats won by a score of 288-274, the individual scores being: Bats—Holmes 63, Hull 82, Peckham 74, Thompson 64, total 283. Cranes—Watson 69, Jestings 68, Dillon 73, Olivea 63, total 274.

Only one pocket billiard contest was played, the Hawks revenging themselves on the Cranes by administering the latter a 25-15 defeat. The Hawks had Dent and Horgan as cue barders, while the Crane team was composed of Olivea and Dillon.

Bill for Promotion of Lieutenant Commander Abernethy for Bravery.

To reward Lieutenant Commander Robert Andrew Abernathy, U. S. N., for his signal bravery and coolness in saving the supply of gunpowder and gasolene on board supply ship Culgoa in the New York navy yard in the fire following the explosion July 28, 1910, Senator O'Gorman of New York has introduced a bill to promote the young naval officer. It is provided that he shall take rank next after Lieutenant Commander Robert L. Berry and be an additional number to the number of officers of that rank and any other rank to which he may hereafter be promoted.

When the explosion occurred the Culgoa had on board 200 tons of smokeless powder in copper casks and 7000 gallons of gasolene. At the explosion of one of the copper casks being transferred to a lighter all the men save Lieutenant Commander Abernathy left the ship. He remained, and set the pumps and began working on the flames. His conduct inspired the other men to return and extinguish the flames.

Experiments in the use of aspen for shingles show that the shingles do not check in seasoning, and that they turn water satisfactorily, but are too easily broken in handling.

TEACHER FORTY-ONE YEARS

Mrs. Edna Curtis Chase Dies in the Tilley Homestead, of Pneumonia.

Mrs. Edna Curtis Chase, for over 41 years a teacher in the public schools and for the last three years on the retired list, died at her home on Tilley avenue early this morning, after an illness of a week, from pneumonia. Mrs. Chase was a daughter of the late Abraham H. and Belinda Barker Tilley, and died in the Tilley homestead, where she had lived the greater part of her life.

Born January 6, 1849, she was the fifth in a family of seven children and received her education in the public schools, graduating from the old Newport High School. Shortly after her graduation she was elected a teacher in the schools and continued until her marriage to John P. Chase, July 20, 1871. After her husband's death, April 19, 1876, Mrs. Chase was again elected a teacher, continuing in that capacity until 1910, when she was one of the first to receive the benefit of the teachers' retirement fund. Her last place on the roll of teachers was in grade VII in the Coggeshall school.

Joining the First Baptist Church in early life, Mrs. Chase continued a devoted member until her death, being prominent in all branches of activity. For many years she was treasurer of the Sunday school and of the Improvement Society.

Mrs. Chase is survived by a son, Mr. John P. Chase, with whom she made her home, and three grandchildren, to whom she was very devoted. Of the family of seven brothers and sisters only two sisters—Mrs. John M. Popple and Mrs. George Nason—survive. Her brothers were the late George W. T. Tilley, Abram A. Tilley and Herbert C. Tilley, and her other sister, the late Mrs. T. Stamford Seabury.

DESIGNING EMPHASIZED.

Miss Zimmerman's Illustrated Talk on Famous Gardens Enjoyable.

Miss B. E. Zimmerman of Brooklyn gave an interesting lecture on "Famous Gardens" at the Young Men's Christian Association hall Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Garden Association and the Horticultural Society. There was a good-sized audience, which thoroughly enjoyed Miss Zimmerman's descriptions and was especially pleased with the lantern slides with which she illustrated the lecture.

Rev. Roderick Terry, D. D. presided and introduced the lecture, who prefaced her talk with a statement that she would give a short history of the famous gardens of the world, with particular emphasis on designing, saying that in modern gardens artistic designing has become a lost art. The first picture was of an ancient Egyptian garden; then came pictures of the hanging gardens of Babylon and scenes in other Oriental countries. Next was shown the famous Alhambra, the gardens of the Greeks and Romans, including Nero's garden; then Pliny's in Tuscany, and later monastic gardens of the days following the fall of Rome, the Italian renaissance and those of the Kings of France, passing on to the early gardens of England, Spain, Holland, Russia, Bavaria and France.

EQUAL REPRESENTATION.

Any Change in City Charter Should Include Also the School Committee.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

Whatever fault may be found with the present city charter, this much at least can be said in its favor, it provided equal representation for every part of the city. Every ward has its representative in the Board of Aldermen, and its 39 members in the Representative Council, every one a resident of the ward he represents.

The same cannot be said of every branch of the city government. This is particularly noticeable in the membership of the School Committee as it is composed at present. Although this body is supposed to represent the whole city, its membership is drawn from a very small area of the city. Of the 12 members that constitute the board, seven reside in the Second ward, four in the Third and one in the Fifth, leaving the First and Fourth wards without a single representative in this branch of the city government. In other words, two fifths of the city have no representation on the School Board, or three fifths of the city have one representative on the board, and the other two fifths have 11 representatives on that same board. This is certainly not an equal distribution of the power which probably pays more in taxes than the Second and Third combined, is without representation, while the Second and Third have 11 out of a total of 12 members.

If any change is made in the city charter, this change should include also the School Committee. And such changes should be made as will give to every ward in the city equal representation on the School Board.

Mr. Sturgis joined the Exchange in 1880, and became a governor in 1877. He has served as president, as chairman of the law committee, and as a member of the committee on administration. He was a close friend of the late J. P. Morgan and a member of the latter's Corsair Club.

Mr. Sturgis is a well known summer resident of Newport.

AQUIDNECKS TROUNCE GLENWOODS.

Intense Rivalry in Game of Fast Passing and Accurate Shooting.

St. Mary's Juniors and One Hundred and Twenty-Ninth Company Defeat Opponents.

Continuing their winning streak, the Aquidnecks trounced the Glenwood Athletic Club quintet at St. Mary's hall Wednesday evening in a basket ball game supposed to be for the St Mary's championship, by the unusually large score of 75-16. So far as the Glenwoods are concerned, it may be add that they played well in the opening minutes, but once the Aquidnecks started it became a high scoring game, with plenty of rough play. The rivalry was intense, but the Aquidnecks removed all questions as to the championship and are at present one of the strongest junior teams in the city.

For the first five minutes the playing was even, most of the large crowd being inclined to think the contest would be close. Soon the Aquidnecks began their fast passing and accurate shooting and the Glenwoods were left behind, overwhelmed under a rapid succession of goals. Connolly and Diggles as forwards were a great combination, and their accurate passing was the cause of most of the scoring. The playing was rough throughout this half, in which the Aquidnecks led by a 25-3 score.

The Aquidnecks changed their line-up in the second period, and that the change was much for the better is shown by the score for the half which went to the Aquidnecks, 50-13. The speedy Diggles broke loose in this half, tallying seven goals, although his man covered him closely. The Aquidnecks had all kinds of shots, making good on most of them, and throwing in several long ones. The score did not seem to phase the Glenwoods, as they continued their hard playing long after the game was hopelessly lost.

Diggles and Connolly were the stars, scoring nearly half their team's total. Kenney and Simmons also played well for the winners, while Ritt and Reagan put up the best game for the Glenwoods. The line-up and summary:

Aquidnecks.	Glenwood A. C.
Connolly, Simmons, r. f.	l. f., Ritt
Diggles l. f.	r. f., Shantler
Cremin, Connolly, c.	c., Egan
Kenney, J. Sullivan	l. g., r. f., Reagan
Martin, r. g.	l. f., D. Sullivan

Score—Aquidnecks 75, Glenwood 16. Goals from floor—Connolly 8, Diggles 7, Martin 7, Simmons 5, Kenney 4, J. Sullivan 2, Ritt 2, Reagan 2, Shantler, Egan, D. Sullivan. Goals from foul line—Cremin 4, Connolly 3, Ritt, Reagan. Referee—Horgan of the Father Mathews. Scorer—Connerton. Timer—Oakley. Time—20-minute halves.

The St. Augustin's team bowed again in defeat to the St. Mary's Juniors in the St. Mary's hall this time by the much reduced score of 6-5. Neither team had many tries at the basket, the close covering of both being the feature. After an interesting game, the first half ended 3-3 in St. Mary's favor. Soon after the second started Great placed the St. Augustin's in the lead when he scored on a difficult try. Amid great excitement Kelley threw in the winning goal later, rounding out the longest shot of the game. Kelley and Butler played well for the St. Mary's lads, and Grant and Buckley did the scoring for the St. Augustin's. The line-up and summary follows:

St. Mary's Juniors.	St. Augustin's
Butler, r.	l. f., O'Brien
Driscoll	r. f., Buckley
Gallagher, Nolan, c.	c., Conlogue
Kelley, l. g.	l. g., Dubbit
Sweeney, r. g.	r. f., Grant

Score—St. Mary's Juniors 6, St. Augustin's 5. Goals from floor—Butler, Kelley, Sweeney, Grant, Buckley. Goal from foul line—Grant. Referee—Wade. Timer—Kenny. Scorer—Simmons. Time—15-minute halves.

In the Fort Adams inter-company tournament, at the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium, the One Hundred and Twenty Ninth defeated the Ninety Seventh, 25 to 15, in an interesting contest. O'Leary played a star game, making 20 of his team's 25 points. Dinsmore did the best point making for the losers. The line-up was as follows:

129th Company.	97th Company.
Smith, Sullivan	r. f., Smith
O'Leary, Fitz	l. f., Smith
Crawford, c.	c., Chapman
Pitzer, r. g.	r. f., Prebland
Juliana, l. g.	l. f., Dinsmore

Score—129th Company 25, 97th Company 15. Goals from floor—Smith, O'Leary 10, Crawford, Pitzer 2, Smith 2, Chapman, Dinsmore 3. Goals from foul—Smith (97th company) 3. Referee—Conahay.

THE ST. AUGUSTIN'S SACRED DRAMA.

Those interested in the study of sacred history and the first years of Christianity will find much in the sacred drama which is to be presented on Sunday evening by several young women of St. Augustin's parish, under the auspices of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin. The play, which has been successfully produced in other places, is to be presented for the first time in this city and introduces, besides other dramatic situations, several beautiful tableaux. The music also promises to be a feature.

FIRE NOTES.

Another Chimney Still—Automobile Combination Having Its Troubles.

Wednesday evening about 8 o'clock there was a still alarm, for a chimney fire at the Enos cottage on Kay street. Combination 1, Hose 5 and Chief Kirwin attended, but the hose wagon did not arrive there until after making a parade in front of the News office and looking for a fire on Church street.

The auto-public combination was out of commission for a few minutes after responding to the still, but after a little adjustment was all right again and ready for a run. It is now wearing skid chains, for the slippery weather. In this it had advantage over the horses at the Fearing fire, for they were quite unprepared to meet the ice which formed in the driveways and was to be crossed over in picking up. One team of horses fell in the effort and others were barely kept up.

It is explained that the cause for Combination 1 sticking in the doorway Wednesday when starting to respond to an alarm was the fact that after the cold night the engine was being given its morning exercise, and was not quite sufficiently warmed up when the doors were opened and the zero weather struck it. It happened to be a new experience for the men, and of course it takes time to learn all the ins and outs about anything. Mr. Arter is now acting as an expert adviser to the department for its auto-mobile apparatus, and does not condemn the machine for this delay, even though he is the agent who is to bring to town the new machine for the lower part of the city.

It was also noted that on the same alarm a team of nice horses was out exercising, and there was a delay incident to its return to the house for the apparatus. This is frequently the case.

It was felt Wednesday that the regular firemen had had enough exercise to keep them in trim and were likely to have frequent calls, so instead of using them to clean up the hose from the Fearing fire men were gathered from the streets and given a little work, clearing away the ice, washing the hose and hanging it in the tower to dry.

REVENUE CUTTERS BUSY.

Three Are Hard at Work Relieving Shipping in Vineyard Sound.

Revenue cutters Acushnet and Itasca have been joined by the Gresham from New York in their work of relieving shipping in Vineyard sound. Today's wireless news to the radio station here shows that all three ships are busy and have plenty of work ahead of them.

Wednesday night schooner Mount Hope, which had been reported in distress 24 hours before was again reported, this time as leaking badly. At 10 o'clock the Itasca reported to her headquarters, revenue office, New York, that she had the Hart in tow for Provincetown, that the Acushnet had two others and that the Gresham was standing by.

This morning the Acushnet had the Sunlight in tow from Handkerchief shoal to Vineyard Haven, and later had picked up a schooner, Helen Moreavy of Monomoy and was towing her to Provincetown, while the Gresham was going to a schooner between Monomoy and Chatham. This forenoon the wireless station at Cape Cod reported to the Gresham that a British three master was approximately a mile east southeast of Pollock Rip lightship with a gas buoy down in her rigging.

All through this district, where a good deal of shipping is afloat, the high wind and extreme temperature, taken havoc with sailing craft, and the crews could not navigate them to safety because they were so badly iced up.

The Nantucket Shoals lightship at 8 o'clock this morning reported the weather as cloudy, sea smooth, wind west and moderate.

CHIEFS RAISED UP.

Deputy Great Sachem James Munroe of Providence, assisted by Past Great Sachem John J. Peckham as great prophet and Past Sachem Frank S. Hale as great sannap, raised up the chiefs of Wechast Chassit Tribe of Red Men Wednesday evening. After the formal exercises there were long talks and a chowder, following which many of those present witnessed a rehearsal of the team which is to go to Providence January 27 and give a snake dance at the ball for the Olympus Fund, to be given in Infantry hall.
